Federal Agencies To Be Reorganized

TIMING IDEA PUT TO TEST BY PRESIDENT

Wants to Synchronize Influences of Production and Distribution

OLUNTARY UNITY AIM depends on Construction to Give Momentum to Business Revival

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright 1929 by Post Pub. Co.
Washington — "Timing" may be as important a word in the vocabulary of the present readjustment in business as "coordination" as in war days.

For, expressed in a single word, resident Hoover and the leaders of industry and finance whom he has mobilized will endeavor to develop a "timing" between the influences of education and distribution which will make it possible for the country to go forward unimpeded on its course of reconstruction.

Recognizing that the business situation cannot be disturbed except by psychological influences and that stimulus would result if steps were taken in time, the president is anxious to apply the theory of voluntary cooperation between the major forces in American industrial life.

The federal government has several steps of its own in mind. At the treasury is requesting authority to expand the public building program by $175,000,000. This is employment for some of the war which the motor industry may lease. The railways are being urged to go ahead with their expansion plans. Construction of ships there held in abeyance through a dispute over mail contracts will go forward, using up steel and also aiding employment.

Public utility companies have expansion programs, too. They also have been wondering whether industry, the greatest consumer of electric power, would hesitate.

OLD HOOVER IDEA
For many years the president has held the theory that the cycles of economic depression could be corrected by concerted action and by "timing" industry, just as the various parts of the motor in an automobile are timed. The committee on economic changes over which Mr. Hoover presided as secretary of commerce made a report strengthening this theory.

Public for four youths—two of whom are Oliver's chief of police—announced their plans to summon him to the stand. They anticipated refutation of the testimony given by Frank Janowicz, son of Vincent Janowicz, Black Creek farmer. Frank told the youths he had father and mother $10,000 in repayment for a $2,000 loan he had stolen.

Several To Be Merged Under Plan

War Veits' Groups to Be Consolidated—Shift in Dry Law Enforcement

Washington — (AP) — President Hoover is ready to translate into action ten years' talk about reorganizing the federal government.

As a first step he has approved a plan to consolidate all of the agencies dealing with war veterans and their dependents and will ask the sanction of congress for it at the opening of the regular session two weeks hence.

Chief among these agencies are the veterans' bureau, now functioning as an independent establishment, the pension office, administered by the interior department, the pension office, administered by the interior department, the pension office, administered by the interior department.

The consolidation is expected to bring about a saving of several millions of dollars in administration and hospitalization costs alone and to simplify the work of dealing with the veterans and their dependents.

CREATE SINGLE AGENCY
There would be created a new single agency under a director reporting directly to the president through his administrative assistant. It would handle more than three quarters of a billion dollars annually, embracing the $500,000,000 spent by the veterans' bureau, some $350,000,000 by the pension office and around $20,000,000 by the other divisions.

Under the direction of the president a comprehensive survey now is being made for consolidating within the justice department most of the agencies dealing with prohibition enforcement and a recommendation along that line also will be made to turn to page 4 col. 4

4 MORE NAMED IN BANK THEFT CASE

Each Charged With Embezzlement in $3,592,000 Fund Defalcation

Flint, Mich. — (AP) — Warrants naming four more employees of the Union Industrial bank here as participating in the $3,592,000 defalcation of the bank's funds were issued here today. The men charged were Frank D. Montague, assistant vice president, J. W. Barrow, A. J. Schlosser, and C. A. Plumb, tellers.

Each of the four were charged with a specific embezzlement in the warrants issued today upon information sworn to by a representative of the bank's executive staff were issued last week.

Those named as responsible for the defalcations, which were discovered with the recent crash of the stock market, now number ten. Warrants for the arrest of six members of the bank's executive staff were issued last week.

The six were John S. Desamp, former vice president E. D. Graham, former vice president and cashier, Milton Pollock, former vice president, and Charles S. Mott, president of the bank, defalcated funds from his personal resources to cover the defalcation.

COUNTY TAXES "BREAK" CITY, BOARD IS TOLD

Mayor Rule Tells Supervisors That Appleton Is in Bad Shape

A graphic picture of Appleton's dire financial straits was sketched for the county board at its session Wednesday morning by Mayor Albert C. Rule.

For an hour the mayor occupied the floor quoting figures showing that Appleton was nearing a financial condition where it might be necessary to raise the tax rate above the $40-per-thousand limit set by law.

The mayor explained that his appearance before the board was prompted by information that county taxes were to be raised almost $500,000. He said he didn't intend to tell the board members how to run the county or how to reduce the tax levy but he merely wanted to bring to the attention of the board the fact that Appleton was, figuratively speaking, standing on its last legs insofar as its finances are concerned.

"And there are other districts in the county in the same situation," Mayor Rule declared. "This position is being brought about as the result of the ever-increasing demand for public improvements by the public. The taxpayers' demands increase daily but if the taxes are raised proportionately we immediately hear the howls. I am here to sketch Appleton's position so the information will get into the papers and thereby to the taxpayers. Perhaps then they will realize that their constantly increasing petitions for improvements must stop or they will have to bear the additional taxes without protest."

If the proposed county budget, as outlined to the county board Tuesday by the finance committee, is approved Mayor Rule pointed out that Appleton's share of the county taxes would be raised from $92,000 paid this year to over $500,000.

OUT OF PROPORTION
"This tax is all out of proportion to taxes paid by other cities in the state," the mayor said. He quoted the figures showing how much county taxes were paid by the various cities last year.

Manitowoc, $125,000; Janesville, $145,000; Wausau, $145,000; Eau Claire, $179,000; Fond du Lac, $271,000; Sheboygan, $226,000; Green Bay, $365,000; and Oshkosh, $322,000.

"We haven't got the largest city in the state and our assessment is not the highest in the state and yet our taxes lead all the rest," the mayor said.

For three weeks the mayor has been working on the 1930 budget and final figures show, he said, that expenditures next year would exceed receipts by $149,000. As the city now owes the banks $215,000 this would permit a reduction in the city loans of about $50,000.

However, the mayor pointed out, the figures first quoted were based on an estimated increase of only $60,000 in county taxes instead of the most recent figure which places Appleton's increase at about $500,000.

"The banks are demanding a reduction of the city loans and we can't possibly do it if the county taxes are increased in the manner which is proposed," Mayor Rule said. "We are close to the safety limit in issuance of bonds and cannot possibly float another issue safely because it will place the city in a precarious position."

Only $20,000 for new sewers and $10,000 for resurfacing work are contained in the city proposed budget. Turn to page 4 col. 3

Examine Threat Notes In Attack On Teacher

Fond du Lac — (AP) — Handwriting experts were called on today by Fond du Lac authorities to examine a series of purported threatening letters which a country school teacher, found bruised and gagged, said were written to her.

Unable to elicit from Miss Clemencia Keys, 29, any more information about the "mysterious man" she said assaulted her, the district attorney decided on examination of the notes as a last resort.

Miss Keys was questioned for three hours last night in the district attorney's office. She said she could offer no better description of the man than the fragmentary one the sheriff already had been given. Two brothers of the teacher said they had kept a 24-hour vigil over the schoolhouse during the time the alleged attack was said by her to have occurred. They told Dist. Atty. Gooding that they saw no one there during that time. Miss Keys, however, insisted someone had been there and that the "mysterious man" had come while her brothers were on watch.

Persistent reports today that Miss Keys had resigned as teacher of the Maine school were unfounded, John Peters, secretary of the school board, said.

Along with samples of the handwriting of unsigned notes said to have been sent the teacher went to the writing of a county resident to be analyzed by experts, it was announced. County officials hope to solve the mystery of the purported attack by determining who wrote the alleged notes threatening the girl unless she resigned.

Testimony was taken in the case about two months ago.

NINE EXPELLED FROM SCHOOL AFTER RAID

Urbana, Ill. — (AP) — Disciplinary action assumed drastic proportions on the University of Illinois campus today.

The aftermath to the liquor raid on the Gamma Eta Gamma house brought expulsion to eight members of the fraternity and to another student involved. The fraternity itself was ordered to show cause why it should not be disbanded.

W. J. Sherman of Crown Point, Ind., who was fined $500 and costs after pleading guilty to possession of 12 gallons of liquor confiscated in the raid Sunday, was one of those expelled. Other fraternity members to meet the same fate from the student council of administration were: A. J. Withers, Hibbing, Minn.; E. E. Langlois, Cicero, Ill.; R. R. Hughes, Burlington, Iowa; J. P. McMillan, Carthage, Ill.; Charles Binkert, Quincy, Ill.; and Robert J. Hartley, Toulon, Ill.

Infractions of other university rules brought the day's total of 11 students either expelled or dismissed.

COWBOY CONVICTED OF SLAYING INDIAN

Pawhuska, Okla. — (AP) — John Ramsey, cowboy of the Osage hills country, was convicted the second time today of the murder of Henry Roan, Osage Indian, and sentenced to life imprisonment by a jury in federal court.

Ramsey was accused of slaying the Indian at the instigation of William K. Hale, so-called "killing king" of the Osage hills. Hale might owe $200,000 in insurance which he held on Roan's life.

Ramsey has faced three juries on the charge. The first jury, the second found him and Hale guilty, but Ramsey was granted a new trial. Hale, who is serving a life sentence for the murder, was brought from prison to testify for Ramsey.

SEE BRIGHTER PROSPECTS FOR U. S. BUSINESS

Conferences Expected to Bring More Optimism Throughout Country

Washington — (AP) — A more optimistic psychology, induced by the prospect of easier credit conditions and extensive railway, shipyard and governmental construction, was foreseen today as the first product of President Hoover's program for increasing and stabilizing American prosperity.

Those close to the administration looked forward to a prompt and beneficial reaction from the chief executives of the great Eastern railroads and bankers from all sections of the nation and from assurances of large orders for railway and marine equipment that have grown out of Mr. Hoover's campaign in the few days that have elapsed since the original announcement of his plans.

Laid aside that the president might pay his last respects to the late Secretary James W. Good of the war department, the chief executive's schedule of conferences with the leaders of American economic endeavor will be resumed tomorrow with a discussion of what the manufacturing and industrial field can do to advance his plans, attended by a group of men prominent in that phase of the nation's business.

Through the operation of mail contract awards and loans from the $250,000,000 fund established by the Jones-White law to assist in the expansion of the merchant marine, the administration expects the shipyards to be humming with activity within the space of six months.

BROWN MAPS PLANS
Plans to bring this about were announced last yesterday by Postmaster General Brown, speaking for the interdepartmental committee on ocean mail contracts, which for three months has been making a study to determine the best method of awarding postal shipping contracts.

Contracts will go to the lowest bidder, Mr. Brown said, and the construction of a total of 49 new vessels, large and fast enough to compete with any on the sea, is planned by companies which have indicated an intention of submitting bids.

"In all probability," the postmaster general asserted, "another six months will see the shipyard capacity of the country completely filled."

He revealed that new liners for the North Atlantic service estimated to cost approximately $25,000,000 are planned with vessels capable of carrying 10,000 tons and will be the last word in modern marine architecture and engineering.

From the Jones-White fund the construction companies can borrow at low interest rates up to 75 percent of the amount to be expended for new tonnage. The fund is administered by the shipping board and the navy department.

But while contract awards are to go to the lowest bidder, a degree of favor is to be extended to those companies which contemplate immediate construction as a means of stimulating building.

It was pointed out that the prospective marine construction should mean much to many branches of American commerce, through the rapidly and extensively of the articles which go into the making of a modern ocean liner. These include machinery, electrical appliances, upholstery, draperies and furniture and fitting of all kinds.

It was expected that Frank Hogan, Detroit's counsel, would oppose the January date for the award of other contract awards and would ask that the award be postponed until March. In reply to the proposition to award the contract to the lowest bidder, the secretary of the shipping board said that the award would be made to the lowest bidder, but that the award would be made to the lowest bidder, but that the award would be made to the lowest bidder.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Wire tapping will be made legal and information on wire tapping obtained by this method would be made available to the federal and state governments, a bill introduced by Representative Charles McNary, Oregon, expects to introduce tomorrow.

Schaffer said he would call for prompt action on the measure in the hope of restoring "the fundamental liberties guaranteed to our people under the constitution" which he said were "taken away by a decision of the supreme court."

The measure would provide a penalty of from one to ten years imprisonment.

Sinclair To Leave Jail At Midnight

Oil Operator to Be Freed After Half Year's Confinement

Washington — (AP) — Harry F. Sinclair, indicted with the phillips and reverts of the District of Columbia jail pharmacy today for the last time. At midnight tonight he will leave all that behind, his sentences for contempt of court and contempt of the senate completed.

After six and one-half months of confinement the millionaire oil operator is expected to go at once to his luxurious Long Island home.

Sinclair entered the jail on May 16 to serve terms of three months for refusing to answer questions of the senate committee investigating the oil scandals and of six months for contempt of the District of Columbia Supreme court in connection with the shadowing of the jury when he was on trial with Albert B. Fall for conspiracy to defraud the government through the celebrated lease on the Teapot Dome Naval Oil Reserve.

Portions of the two sentences ran concurrently and with allowances for five days off each month for good behavior, his stay in the jail was reduced to six months and fourteen days.

AROUSAL CRITICISM
Drug store experience gained in the early days of his career led to his assignment as jail pharmacist and assistant to the jail physician. A storm of criticism was aroused when it was discovered that his duties took him beyond the walls of the jail and included frequent rides to the Washington waterfront.

These were discontinued by William L. Peake at the direction of his superior officers in the District of Columbia government, although Peake asserted that it amounted to discriminating against Sinclair because of his wealth and the notoriety of his case.

The conviction of Sinclair on the contempt charges was among the few such verdicts obtained by the government in court actions arising from the oil scandals. Sinclair had been acquitted of conspiracy and Edward L. Doheny and former Interior Secretary Fall were acquitted on similar charges.

Peake was convicted, however, of bribery in the Doheny, Elk Hills Naval oil reserve case, a few weeks ago and that verdict is now being appealed to higher courts.

TEACHER INVOLVED IN RACKOW TRIAL

Hotel Manager's Deposition Read in Fond du Lac Poisoning Case

Fond du Lac — (AP) — Another woman's name was indicted today in the trial of Arthur Rackow, 32, accused of first degree murder as the result of the sudden death of his young wife last May.

The woman named was Margaret Hensel, former vocational teacher in the Fond du Lac schools. Over strenuous objections of defense attorneys, a deposition taken from Hensel, manager of the Parkway Hotel, Chicago, was read. Miss Hensel refused to come to the trial unless the county paid expenses of an attorney for her.

According to Hensel's deposition, Rackow and the girl remained at the hotel together and got adjoining rooms connected by a door. He said they checked out together.

Testimony of Mrs. Harriet Butterfield, where the school teacher roomed while here, tended to show that Rackow called on the girl frequently but that their conduct was always exemplary.

Hensel, according to the deposition, told her that Rackow had come to her prior to the death of the girl and told her of his plans to marry her. She said that Rackow had told her that he was going to marry her and that he was going to marry her.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A favorable report on the nomination of G. Arthur Youngquist to be assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition cases was ordered today by a senate judiciary sub-committee and a special meeting of the whole committee was called for late in the day to consider it.

YOUNG GUARD BEATEN, VOTE IS 49 TO 33

Democratic Leader Offers Resolution—Says Tariff Can't Be Rushed

EXPECT HOUSE BACKING
Senators Decide They Need at Least Week Before Regular Session

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Riling rough shed over the "Young Guard" of Republican regulars, a weary senate today voted to adjourn the special session Friday night and take a week's recess before regular meeting in December. The vote was 49 to 33.

Senator Walsh of Montana, leading Democratic leader, offered the adjournment resolution at the outset of today's session.

He said it was apparent it was impossible to pass the tariff bill before Dec. 2, when the regular session begins and asserted senators should be given at least a week to prepare for the winter term.

Senator Jones of Washington, acting Republican leader, joined to support Walsh.

Jones was backed up by a group of the Old Guard Republican regulars; some of the western independents, and the almost solid Democratic line up.

VETERANS ARE TIRED
The "Young Guard" shouted out their votes of opposition but the tired old veterans who have been working hard day and night for weeks on the tariff were determined to have at least a week off and reared out are on the motion.

Only one Democrat, Dill, of Washington, voted with the "Young Guard" Republicans.

The following 11 Republicans voted for the adjournment, which must now be acted upon by the house: Blinnham, Elaine, Brockhart, Greene, Hale, Jones, Keyes, McNary, Moore, Neelbeck, Phillips Schall and Stedman. House leaders have indicated a desire that the special session continue until the senate enacted the tariff measure. They also have said any more for adjournment must originate in the senate.

Immediately after the vote, Senator Vanhousen, of Michigan, one of the "Young Guard" Republicans, arose and in a short speech, said he regretted the action. The "Young Guard" last week was largely instrumental in preventing adjournment at that time. Asserting his impatience of first degree murder as the result of the sudden death of his young wife last May.

U. S. Highest Officials Pay Tribute At Good's Bier

HOLD SIMPLE SERVICES IN WHITE HOUSE

Body of Late War Department Chief Taken to Cedar Rapids, Iowa

Washington—(AP)—Flags at half-staff throughout the land today signaled the death of a great American statesman. President Hoover and other officials of both the American and foreign governments assembled in the historic east room of the White House and paid final tribute at the funeral of James W. Good, the late secretary of war.

The services of the Presbyterian church were conducted with simple dignity. Around the room, in which many epochal events of American history have taken place, were floral tributes from personal friends, foreign governments, and many organizations.

The metal casket was placed before the east tier of windows which were draped in heavy gold brocade.

Two soldiers at either end of the casket stood at rigid attention. Elsewhere in the room, the gold brand on the uniforms of high officers of the army and the bright decorations on the uniforms of diplomats and military attaches of foreign powers appeared in sharp contrast to the somber drapery of the room.

Before the services started and anyone had arrived, Mr. and Mrs. Hoover had entered the room and remained for a while in personal tribute. The president for some time stood by the casket and gazed into the face of his late friend and official adviser. Mrs. Hoover remained a few feet distant.

Washington—(AP)—The highest honors of an appreciative government were bestowed today upon the late James W. Good, the first member of the Hoover cabinet to be claimed by death.

The historic east room of the White House, scene of many an epochal event, was garbed for impressive funeral services signifying the deep esteem in which the dead secretary was held by his colleagues in the high places of the government.

In deference to the wishes of Mrs. Good that the services be conducted with the utmost dignity and the least degree of ostentation, the list of those attending was restricted to high public officials, members of the diplomatic corps and close personal friends.

At the head of those paying last tribute to Secretary Good stood President Hoover, who late yesterday made public acknowledgment of his affectionate regard for the deceased cabinet officer, praising him as a capable public servant and a close and devoted friend.

"For most of his mature life he served the nation," the president said, "earning the best esteem for his abilities, his fine integrity and his courageous spirit. He was the first thought of those who knew and loved him for his loyal and self-effacing friendship that thousands remember him; and that affectionate association is now broken."

GUARD OF HONOR
A flag-draped caisson and a military guard of honor stood ready to convey the body of the cabinet officer to the White House for today's funeral services. A floral bower at the south end of the East room awaited the casket with chairs for members of the family, President and Mrs. Hoover and ranking government officials just behind it.

The Rev. Joseph Richard Swool, pastor of the New York Avenue Presbyterian church, was selected to conduct the funeral services of his denomination. After the ceremonies, those who had assembled for the services were permitted to file past the casket. One hour, from noon to one o'clock, was set aside for employees of the war department to pay their last respects to their dead leader.

Meanwhile, all offices of the executive branch of the government were closed at the direction of President Hoover, flags on all government buildings stood at half-mast and special marks of respect were ordered for the military and naval establishments.

BURIAL IN IOWA
Accompanied by a distinguished escort, the body tonight will be en route to Cedar Rapids, Iowa, for interment near the place of the cabinet officer's birth. Burial services will be conducted on Friday.

Secretary Adams of the navy department will represent the administration on the delegation going to the Iowa city and Col. Campbell Hodges, the president's military aide, will go as the chief executive's personal representative. The war department will be represented by Acting Secretary Hurley, Assistant Secretary F. Trubee Davidson, General Charles P. Summerall, the chief

DOCTOR ORDERS ROCKNE TO REMAIN IN HIS BED

South Bend, Ind.—(AP)—Knute E. Rockne, Notre Dame football coach, was informed today by his physician, Dr. R. L. Sensesch, that he must not accompany the team to Evansville, Ill., next Saturday for the Northwestern game. Rockne was also directed to remain in bed for another week. He has been afflicted with a blood clot on one of his legs.

The physician's orders preclude the possibility of Rockne having direct charge of the team in preparation of the Northwestern contest and the Army game which is to be played in New York City Nov. 30.

Tom Lieb, assistant coach, will direct the team during Rockne's absence. It is doubtful if Rockne will be able to accompany the squad to New York.

BANK ROBBER IS VICTIM OF MOB IN TEXAS

1,000 Drag Condemned Man from Jail and Hang Him at Eastland

Eastland, Texas—(AP)—Impatient at the law's delay and enraged by the latest crime of Marshall Ruffin, condemned "Santa Claus" bank robber, a mob of approximately 1,000 persons last night dragged the condemned man from a telephone cable 200 yards from the jail from which he was dragged.

For several hours the man's body dangled from the end of a grassy rope in a bitter wind, while a crowd, which included many women and children stood gazing upward in comparative silence until a justice of the peace ordered the body cut down.

Two years ago Ruffin, dressed as a Santa Claus, participated in a bank holdup in which two officers and one of his companions were killed. Monday, after feigning paralysis and winning the sympathy of his keepers, he attempted a jail break, shooting and seriously wounding Deputy Tom Jones, veteran peace officer. Last night 200 men overpowered his jailer, entered Ruffin's cell, dragged him to a well-lighted business street and lynched him.

Ruffin was held in the Eastland jail pending a sanity hearing, asked for by his aged mother, who asserted her son had lost his mind while awaiting his execution in the death cell at Huntsville State prison.

Discovery by the townspeople of Eastland, who still remembered the of staff, and a guard of honor consisting of 14 infantrymen. Delegations from the senate and house will also be included. They consist of Senators Densen of Illinois, Steack and Brookhart of Iowa, Dale of Vermont, McKellar of Tennessee, Gillett of Massachusetts, and Glass of Virginia, Speaker Longworth and Representatives Tilson of Connecticut, Garner of Texas, Wood of Indiana, Cramton and James of Michigan, Byrnes of Tennessee, Qum of Mississippi, Chidholm of Illinois, and the entire Iowa delegation.

CANCELS FUNCTIONS
Washington—(AP)—The White House today cancelled the social functions on the calendar for December out of respect for the memory of the late Secretary Good.

Included were the diplomatic reception usually one of the most brilliant of the season, which was to have been held on Dec. 5, and the cabinet dinner, which was on the program for Dec. 12.

deaths of Chief of Police G. E. Bedford and Officer George Carmichael in the battle with the bandits at the nearby town of Cisco two years before, that Ruffin was pretending and, bidding his time for a break, brought their anger to a climax.

All yesterday they gathered in little groups about the town and muttered about Jones' shooting, which physicians said probably would prove fatal. Last night a crowd in front of the jail swelled to nearly a thousand at 8:30.

At about 9 o'clock, some 200 men slipped into a side door of the jail and asked for the man. Jailer Gilborn refused to give him up. Then they overpowered Gilborn, took his keys and got Ruffin.

The bandit had been stripped of his clothes when he was brought downstairs. He was dragged in the direction of the public square, but the crowd would not wait to go those few blocks. At 200 yards from the jail a strong telephone cable was pointed out, a rope flung across it. A noose was put around Ruffin's neck, a dozen men on the other end of the rope bent their weight, and Ruffin was jerked from the ground.

HANGED SECOND TIME
The rope, grabbed somewhere on the spur of the moment, broke. Messengers were sent for another, and again the mob set to its task. Then someone remembered that men about to die are usually given a chance to say a last word. For another moment he was lowered to the ground, but, displeased at his mumbling, the crowd yelled "string him up."

An request was ordered for today. Ruffin's death leaves but one of the four Cisco bank robbers alive. Robert Hill was sentenced to 10 years imprisonment and later escaped from the state prison farm. Henry Helms was electrocuted last summer, and L. E. Davis was fatally wounded in the bank robbery.

Jones at the hospital, was told of Ruffin's death, "that's fine," he said. "I'm glad of it."

Physicians late last night held out some hope for the wounded deputy's recovery, although his condition was still said to be grave.

Event Was Attended by More Than 5,000 People Last Week Report Shows

So successful was the Historical Farm festival staged at the Armory last week by the Appleton Lions Club, the Appleton Chamber of Commerce and a group of rural organizations that the Lions club has voted to continue the show and make it an annual event.

Attendance at the show was estimated at more than 5,000 people in two days. Paid admissions collected in the evening totaled $522.02 according to a report from William Strassburger, Chairman of the Finance Committee. Bills totaled $142.01 leaving a balance of $379.01.

George E. Johnson, general chairman of the show; Harry Schlitz and William Strassburger are to have charge of the money until definite plans are made for its disposal. Another committee, headed by Dr. F. A. Holmes, has been appointed by A. G. Meating, president of the Lions, to make a survey of the county to pick out the places of historical interest which later will be markers. Other members of this committee are W. E. Smith, Elmer Toor, F. B. Younger and William Falsch.

The original purpose of the historical show, Mr. Meating said, was to raise funds to organize a county historical group which would have as its purpose the marking of spots of historical interest in the county. After the special committee has completed its survey it will also make plans for the organization of the proposed county group.

In addition to the expenses of the hour paid from the receipts the real division of the chamber of commerce, which played a big part in staging the event, paid out more than 200 in premiums to exhibitors of trains, fruits, vegetables and canned goods.

Supervisors Vote $25,000 For Courthouse Trust Fund

DECIDE THEY WON'T PUT IT UP TO PEOPLE

Board Disposes of One of Its Knotty Problems Without Argument

In an unusually harmonious session Tuesday afternoon the board of supervisors of the county board decided to set aside $25,000 for the courthouse trust fund, authorized by the county board to determine the county's needs in this matter, and tabled a resolution calling for a county-wide referendum on the courthouse matter.

Little argument preceded the amendment of Supervisor T. H. Ryan's original motion calling for $25,000 for the trust fund. The motion to amend was passed unanimously and when roll call was taken 10 votes cast against setting aside the money.

Supervisor Ryan at the morning session made a plea to the supervisors asking them not to close their eyes to the need for a new courthouse. He admitted that perhaps the amount asked for in his original resolution would have been reduced owing to the state of the county finances but he pleaded with the board not to turn down the matter altogether.

Mr. Ryan made no objection to the amendment cutting the appropriation to $25,000 and it was passed without discussion.

DISCUSS MOTION
When Ryan's second resolution, calling for appointment of a special committee to investigate the county's needs in the matter, was presented he explained to the board that the only purpose he had in asking for the appointment of the committee was to give the board information on which it could plan for the future when the new courthouse was to be built. After the resolution had been amended limiting the expenditures of this committee to $200 the matter was unanimously adopted.

The committee is to be made up of the members of the county board building and grounds committee and two other supervisors to be named by the chairman. It is to have a general sketch of the proposed improvement drawn by an architect and they are to be presented at the February session of the board.

After the reading of the resolution, introduced by Supervisors William Powers, and Ben Bell, Kaukauna, calling for a referendum on the courthouse matter Mr. Ryan moved to receive the resolution and place it on file and by a large majority the supervisors concurred. Under Mr. Powers resolution the voters would have been asked, at the next April election, to decide whether they wanted to appropriate any money for the new courthouse for the next five years.

Supervisor Ryan pointed out that such a referendum of this kind to the people would be silly, by asking them to vote on whether they wanted to pay taxes. He said the law did not provide for referendums on matters of this kind.

DEFEAT RESOLUTION
Another resolution by Supervisor Powers, calling for an appropriation of $5,000 to complete the removal of culvert end walls on county highways was defeated 21 to 13. Several supervisors expressed the opinion that it was a waste of money to remove end walls. Supervisors Powers and Anton Jansen, Little Chute, defended the measure pointing to the hazards which now exist on roads where the end walls have not yet been removed. Supervisor Grefmeier of Buchanan opposed the appropriation.

Fourteen supervisors voted against appropriating $5,000 for a new car for the county, although the county health committee had recommended that amount. The original resolution asking for $1,500 was amended by Supervisor August Laabs to cut the amount to $700 but the amendment was lost by a narrow margin. Mr. Laabs pointed out that a good car could be purchased for less than $1,500 and he said he didn't think the money needed such a large car.

Miss Carrie Morgan, chairman of the health committee, pointed out that the nurse was doing exceptionally efficient and fine work in the county and that she had asked for the same kind of car she was now driving and he urged the members not to deny this request.

By a vote of 20 to 11 the supervisors voted $10,000 as aid for the Kaukauna high school. By a unanimous vote they set aside the following appropriations for the 1930-1931 fiscal year: Appletton, $500; Kaukauna, $300; Valley Council Boy Scouts, $500; Charles O. Bear camp of Spanish American War veterans, $750; maintenance of the Kimberly bridge, $1,175.

The board which received aid are to play concerts at the county asylum and the Riverview sanatorium. The money given to the Spanish war veterans is to be used in helping defray the expenses of the annual encampment in Appleton next summer. The money for the Kimberly bridge is half the maintenance cost of the span which has been paid annually by the county since the bridge was constructed.

As the session closed the board became tangled in a legal discussion as to which highway committee was now in power, the old group or the new group, including the three new members elected at this session. The district attorney ruled the new committee was now in power and a resolution by Mr. Laabs, referring all highway matters to the new group, was adopted.

Allice Anthony, Hillsdale, Mich., and Katherine Unger, Palmyra, Mich., sophomores at Lawrence college, have been initiated by the Pi chapter of Mu Phi Epsilon, national honorary musical society.

ROTARY MUST HELP ITSELF TO HELP OTHERS--EMPSON

International Friendships Will End Wars, District Governor Declares

"Rotary is egotistic and altruistic," Ray Empson, governor of the tenth district told members of the Appleton club at their Tuesday luncheon meeting at Hotel Northern. "It is only by helping oneself and being egotistical that a person reaches a point where he can help others and be altruistic."

There has been some criticism of Rotary because of its egotistical characteristics, Mr. Empson said, and many of its own members have commented on the various motives of the organization. Service always is the keynote of the organization but it is only when a man looks at himself for a time that he can turn his attention to others.

It is not by doing big things in a big way that Rotary can accomplish things as for instance causing erection of big buildings or bringing big advantages to a city, according to Mr. Empson, but also by bringing the gospel of Rotary and its ethics into a community's business and civic life.

Mr. Empson then pointed out that Rotary and Rotarians are interested in civic projects interested in religion and the church, in organizations for boys and the boy scout and in a general attempt to dignify all business in a city.

The district governor then launched into a discussion of the international aspect of Rotary and having been born in England and traveling extensively he gave numerous examples of international good will.

And speaking of internationalism he broached a few comments on the effort to abolish war. Because Ramsey MacDonald represented the country of his birth, and President Hoover the country where he now is a citizen and making his home, Mr. Empson pointed with pride at the efforts of the two to bring about peace.

Using Canada and the United States as an example, two countries on whose boundaries there are no forts or armed soldiers, Mr. Empson said the friendship existing was the result of effort to learn to know the other fellow.

Then commenting on his trips abroad he pointed out that if Americans learned to know the fellow across the sea a friendship soon would spring up between the people which would make war impossible. Envy and jealousy cause wars, Mr. Empson stated and a friendship that will overcome envy and jealousy will mean the end of wars.

SUIT FOR $25,000 DAMAGES FOR BITE OPENS AT WAUPACA

Matteson Man Says Foe's Bite Infected Him With Disease

Waupaca—Examination of witnesses in the $25,000 damage suit of James McLane against Arthur Gartzke, Bear Creek, continued in circuit court here Wednesday morning. Another version of the fight in which McLane claims he was bitten by Gartzke was given by H. Haffkins, Bear Creek.

He said he came out of his restaurant and saw McLane on top of Gartzke's head and that when they got up McLane followed Gartzke to the latter's saloon where he turned on McLane and knocked him down. Then a free for all started and Haffkins could not remember more about the two principals.

Waupaca—Trial of a suit for $25,000 damages instituted by James McLane, 27, a town of Matteson resident against Arthur Gartzke, Bear Creek, was started in circuit court here Tuesday before Judge Byron B. Park. McLane alleges Gartzke bit his cheek in a fight and that McLane contracted a loathsome disease as a result.

Dr. W. H. Finney of Clintonville was the first witness called and testified that the disease contracted by McLane is to be dreaded and feared and is rarely, if ever cured. He testified how McLane had called on him for treatment early in August, and how after treating him and having a Wasserman blood test taken he had sent the young man to St. Elizabeth's hospital, Appleton where he was treated.

Albert Gehrlinger, police officer of Clintonville testified how he had arrested Albert Gartzke, James McLane, Raymond Clausen, Gordon Clausen and Gerald McLane for disorderly conduct after he had helped separate Gartzke and James McLane when they were fighting. It was in his light that Gartzke is alleged to have bitten James McLane on the left cheek and on the thumb.

Raymond Clausen, 17, town of Matteson, testified that he was in company with James McLane and Gerald McLane had entered the Albert Gartzke saloon on South Main street, Clintonville, between 9 and 9:30 on the evening of June 14, 1929 and while there he had mentioned the fight to his cousin Gordon Clausen that he had a "date" to take Ruth Gartzke to a show the following evening at that time said "that is my daughter, and I am too young to be out nights." Clausen said Gartzke left the saloon and when he followed was about to step on the sidewalk Gartzke hit him on the face.

He went back into the saloon and told James McLane to come out. Whereupon McLane told him to mind his own business and also was struck by Gartzke just as he was about to step to the street, and was knocked down. McLane got up and clinched with Gartzke and they both fell to the sidewalk where it is alleged that Gartzke bit McLane and later bit Gerald McLane when he put his arm around Gartzke's neck in an attempt to help his brother James.

Arthur Gartzke took the stand and testified that he fought in self defense when a mob attacked him in front of the Gartzke saloon, and stated that he couldn't remember that he bit McLane.

Dr. James H. Murphy testified that he had been called to the jail the night of the fight to give first aid and he had treated James McLane for the wound on his left cheek and on his thumb and had treated Gerald McLane for a bite on his thumb.

PLAN TO REVAMP FEDERAL AGENCIES

congress in the president's message. This would bring about a transfer of the prohibition bureau from the treasury to the justice department and the concentration in that department of other enforcement work. The whole work after the transfer would be under the single direction of G. Aaron Tounquist, assistant attorney general.

Consolidation of other agencies dealing with the same or kindred subjects will be taken up soon with a view to recommendations to congress for the necessary legislation. The purpose is to avoid duplication in effort and work, to simplify and lower the cost of administration and to save time for those who have business with the government.

BEGAN WITH HARDING
The first move looking to reorganization of the government was made by President Harding with the appointment of a commission of congress with Walter F. Brown, now postmaster general, as chairman and the personal spokesman for the president. An exhaustive study was made and a tentative plan covering the whole government was formulated.

Covering as it did every agency of the government, the plan presented such a mass of subjects for controversy that it scarcely reached the stages of even preliminary congressional consideration. There was a general agreement that there should be reorganization, but the whole pattern proved too big a target to be hit by even a small group of the sharpshooters.

President Hoover stressed such reorganization during his campaign but even then had decided that the feasible method was to accomplish the task step by step rather than attempt it at a single jump. Prohibition enforcement and the veterans' care furnished logical starting points.

He appointed a commission to study the second, naming Secretary Wilbur, Walter Newton, his administrative assistant, Director Hines, of the veterans' bureau, and Lieut. Col. Campbell Hodges, military aide to the president, to make the study. They recently completed a report and the president had approved their recommendations.

EXPERTS ENGAGED TO FIND BODIES OF BOYS
In another attempt to locate the bodies of Ted Boland and Carlton Roth, who were drowned a month ago when blown out on Lake Winnebago in a storm, two men from Stillman, Minn., reputed to have had great success in locating bodies, have been employed by Dr. E. L. Bolton to search the lake. The men, E. M. Lurr and Mike Gatzke, began their work Tuesday.

The two boys were drowned when they pushed out into the lake after a duck in a boat without oars. Although the boat was located, no trace of the two youths has been found, despite the efforts of hundreds of people who searched the lake for days after the accident.

OLD HIGHWAY BOARD STEALS MARCH ON NEW

Meets Yesterday Afternoon and Buys $52,000 Worth of Machinery

The Outagamie county board became involved in a wrangle at Wednesday morning's session as to which highway committee, the old or the new, was in power.

When the smoke cleared away the battle seemed to have ended in favor of the new committee on the decision of Stanley A. Staid, district attorney, which held the new committee was in power as soon as it was elected.

The battle started when Supervisor Anton Jansen, a new member of the committee, explained to the board that he refused to take part in the organization of the new committee until the old committee had rescinded its action to purchase snow removal equipment. Mr. Jansen explained that the old committee met late Tuesday afternoon and made contracts with manufacturers for the purchase of equipment and that the new members of the committee hadn't been called to the meeting even though the county board had previously recommended that the new members be asked to sit in at all meetings.

NO APOLOGY
An apology was made by Supervisor James Farrell, Kaukauna, chairman of the old highway committee, who had been defeated in the race for reelection by Jansen. Farrell said it was an oversight on his part which accounted for the new committee not being invited to the meeting. He said he didn't have any apology to make regarding the purchase of equipment because he had spent considerable time investigating the merits of the various kinds of trucks and tractors and felt more capable to choose what was needed than the new committee.

P. H. Ryan, another member of the committee, declared that he had no apology to make to anybody because he felt he had acted in all fairness and justice. He said he was getting "sore" at the kicks and snuffs which the highway committee has been continuously receiving from the supervisors. He pointed out that the committee had spent considerable time investigating the needs of the county and felt equipped to make the contracts.

Later Mr. Ryan said he did desire to make an apology, however, for stepping on "Casey Jansen's dignity."

The reason he protested the action of the committee, Mr. Jansen said, was that the committee had disregarded orders of the board by failing to call in the new committee men.

QUESTION RAISED
Then the question of which committee was in power was raised, and T. H. Ryan, Appleton, declared the old committee was in power until Wednesday as they were elected on Nov. 20, 1929. He said the law reads: "The committee shall hold office one year and until their successors are elected." This means, he said, that if the new committee men are elected before the terms of the old committee men have extended for one year they do not take office until the year has expired.

In the present case the members of the highway committee were elected last Friday, five days before the full year term of the old members had expired.

District Attorney Stanley A. Staid, however, differed with Mr. Ryan, and explained that his opinion was that the new highway committee was in power as soon as it was elected.

A legal discussion followed which ended when Chairman Mike Mack pointed out that the district attorney was the legal adviser of the board.

Just what this means, however, is still in doubt. The old committee has to purchase the following equipment: One Caterpillar tractor and snow plow, $7,450; one Monarch tractor and snow plow, $8,515; two Citroville Four Wheel Drive tractors, $11,000; one Oneda six-wheel tractor, $8,900; one Mack truck, $8,450; snow plows, $9,515; a total of $82,930.

If the district attorney's opinion is correct then the purchases made by the old committee are illegal and won't stand. However, nothing was said by the county board as to what action will be taken. The new committee is expected to meet Wednesday afternoon to organize and it is expected that the new committee men will come in at all actions taken by the old committee.

PIANIST FEATURES AT BAND CONCERT

Gladys Ives Brainard, Lawrence Conservatory, Plays "Hungarian Fantasia"

What probably was the season's best concert by the 12th field artillery band was presented Tuesday evening at Lawrence Memorial chapel. The concert was the third of the indoor season.

A piano solo by Gladys Ives Brainard of Lawrence conservatory of music, "Hungarian Fantasia" was the feature attraction of the evening and was well received by probably the most select group of Appleton and valley music lovers to attend a concert of this kind.

Perhaps a greater part of the audience was at the concert to hear Miss Brainard who has gained national reputation as a pianist. And when she entered onto the stage a hush and then a great wave of applause greeted her. As she played the number, the first time ever attempted with a band as accompaniment, the audience thrilled at the artistry shown by both, especially the skill and technic of Miss Brainard and of the reed section of the band.

The evening's concert opened with Richard Wagner's overture "Rienzi" and was followed by the concert waltz "Moonlight on the Hudson." Both selections made a great hit with the audience.

"The Butterfly" was the third number on the program and was adapted to show the possibilities of the reed section of the band. Reed instrument players are under direction of Orville J. Thompson and in the selection showed considerable training and personal skill. The work of the reed section of the band and the comments it received was one of the high lights of the band's trip to the west coast and the national Elk convention last summer. The descriptive fantasia "Columbus" completed the first part of the program.

Besides the piano solo by Miss Brainard the second half of the program was featured by the overture "William Tell" made more realistic when the storm scene was portrayed. Using shadow boxes during the number and with the chapel darkened the number was much more effective than at any other time played by the band.

FOREIGNERS READY TO TAKE ADVANTAGE OF U. S. MISTAKES

Great Britain Ready for Expansion by Seizing Opportunity When Stocks Broke

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press
New York — Foreign competitors are fully prepared to take advantage of American errors in the struggle for world markets. Great Britain today is believed by many keen financial judges, some of them government officials, to have redoubled expansion of her foreign commerce and home manufacture through lands gained by prompt seizure of opportunities by stock market and credit conditions in the United States. After holding off for months in 1927 and 1928, English investors suddenly broke into the American stock market, buying extensively and pouring funds into the call money market like water. Many of them are believed to have sold at or near the top of the upward movement. Then the British financiers proceeded to withdraw their funds from the all money market. In consequence, British trade and industry has at its disposal today huge sums released from call loans as well as huge profits resulting from successful speculation, according to federal officials. The situation is plainly shown by the movements of sterling exchange, which has advanced from $4.75 on Sept. 25 to about $4.78, and this at a time when past records show a tendency for a normal decrease in the price of the pound. The British exchequer itself has been a decided gainer from late developments.

LARGE UNFUNDED DEBT
The unfunded debt totals in the neighborhood of $25,000,000,000. This must be provided for through short term issues and with money rates low, the exchequer gains. Despite the big list of unemployed in England, the outlook for British trade is bright and American exporters are likely to feel the added strength of competition from this source. American exporters know these facts and are taking steps to meet them. This is one of the subjects which undoubtedly comes up at President Hoover's conferences designed to promote continued prosperity of industry and trade. The situation is not regarded as dangerous, but competition already is so severe that exporters feel no chances should be taken and no advantage presented to opponents. Exports from the United States amounted to $330,000,000 in the last month and the total for the year so far is high, with a nice balance of exports over imports in favor of this country. American foreign trade so far this year shows a growth of between 8 and 10 per cent as compared with 1928.

The strain of foreign competition will come, it is believed by men conversant with international markets, on the automobile, tire, radio and steel concern. And these are the industries which can least afford at the moment to suffer loss of foreign patronage.

EXCELLENT ORDERS
Most of them have excellent backlogs of orders but buyers are not showing a disposition to issue specifications for shipment. Break foreign sales might relieve this situation to a marked degree. For the first 9 months of this year, automobile and auto parts exports were valued at $455,400,000, a gain of 22 per cent over the corresponding period of 1928. Machinery exports for the similar period totaled $462,500,000, a gain of 25 per cent.

The main markets which American exports are seeking at the moment are those of South America. It is there they will find also the stiffest opposition. Great Britain has advanced a coffee valorization plan to Brazil and thereby acquired a preferred position so far as public sentiment is concerned. There is a huge amount of British capital going into Colombia, Peru, Chile and Venezuela. Germany is striving desperately for the business of Argentina.

Both England and Germany are adopting American production methods and much of the goods sold to them from America consists of manufacturing machinery which these countries are using to turn out goods that will later compete with American products in world markets.

BELIEVE ARCTIC AIRMAN IS SAFE

Report Says Plane Sighted in Air, Despite Rumors of Wreck

Nome, Alaska —(P)— A radio report saying that the plane of Carl Ben Eielson, noted Arctic aviator, had been seen flying in the vicinity of North Cape, Siberia, revived hope here today that he would be heard from soon. The report, although meager, was believed to be later than that received Monday saying the wreckage of Eielson's plane had been sighted by natives in the vicinity of the ice bound ships Nanuk and Stavropol ten days ago. Eielson and Frank Dorbandt, a fellow pilot, have been making passengers and furs from the Nanuk, a vessel belonging to the Swenson Fur company, to the Alaska mainland. Each has made one trip to the Nanuk and return and Eielson was making his second journey to the Nanuk when the report that the wreckage of his plane had been sighted was received from the ship's radio. The two fliers planned to rescue the crew of the Stavropol, a Russian ice breaker, as soon as they completed the Nanuk job. In the initial trip to the Nanuk they brought back six of her passengers and valuable furs. On their second trip toward the Nanuk, Eielson and Dorbandt were resumed the trip from there Nov. 9. Dorbandt encountered a storm and forced down at Teller, Alaska, but returned to Teller but Eielson continued his flight. Eielson was well supplied with food and had a sleeping bag and a small stove. Dorbandt expressed the belief that his companion was safe somewhere near North Cape and that he would be in little danger for some time.

4 Students Of Voice In Recital

FOUR of the most advanced voice students from the studio of Carl J. Waterman, assisted by violinists from the studio of Percy Fullinwider, will appear in recital in Peabody hall, Lawrence Conservatory of music on Friday evening, Nov. 22.

Edna, contralto, Ernestine Johnson, soprano, Katherine Schmelz, contralto, and David Scouler, tenor, will present attractive song groups while Wenzel Albrecht and Eleanor Voeks, both outstanding violin students, will assist.

This is the initial student recital of the year and is unusual for a group recital in that the representation from both Dr. Waterman's and Professor Fullinwider's studios, comprises the best advanced student talent at the conservatory.

All of the voice students have appeared in successful individual recitals and have been increasingly prominent in musical activities for the last three years. Ernestine Johnson, who has studied exclusively with Dr. Waterman, appeared in Memorial chapel two years ago carrying the ingenue lead in a musical comedy sponsored by the Appleton post of the American Legion and last year she was soloist for the 120th field artillery band directed by Ed Munn.

For two successive summers she appeared in concert recital at the Waupaca chain of lakes as a number on the summer chautauqua week program presented each year by the management of Camp Clearhorn. Last summer she held a position as soloist at the Presbyterian church, Stevens Point, and was heard in frequent broadcast programs from station WLBL, both as a soloist and duet work with Professor Glockzin, music director of the State Teachers' college, Stevens Point. This year she is soprano in the quartet and assistant director at the Presbyterian church in the city.

Katherine Schmelz, contralto, also enjoys wide popularity as a musician, and is in demand both as a soloist and for duet and quartet work. Her individual recital last spring was a distinct success. Miss Schmelz is quartet contralto at the Presbyterian church.

David Scouler, who has won symphonic appreciation among the Lawrence students, presented two full programs of songs in Chicago No. 7 and 18, as a guest artist. The first at the Southmoor hotel in a musical scale sponsored by the Southshore Country club, Chicago, and the second at the Plaisance hotel under the auspices of the Bervyn Women's club.

Dora Edlin, contralto, needs no introduction to the Appleton audience. She has appeared frequently in Memorial chapel as soloist in musical productions presented from the conservatory under the direction of Carl J. Waterman.

Mrs. Nettie Steining Fullinwider, Katherine Uglow, and Lucille Nelson, will assist at the piano.

Professional Women Hear Talk On Modern Fiction

CONTEMPORARY fiction was the subject of the address by Mrs. H. E. Peabody at the meeting of Appleton Business and Professional Women's club Tuesday night at the Women's club.

In speaking of the novel as the most popular form of fiction, Mrs. Peabody said that because of the many kinds of readers there must necessarily be various types of books. She divided novels into four groups, the first being the historical romance. Among the writers in this group, special mention were given Joseph Conrad, E. Barrington, Owen Wister, and Gertrude Atherton. The novels of fantasy were treated next, and were defined as a type of fiction which strives to show that "there is nothing human that an enlightened mind ought to hate." John Brinkne, Mary Roberts Rinehart, and Elinor Wylie were given as examples of typical writers of fantasy.

Among the writers of novels of characterization and manners, the speaker mentioned in particular Arnold Bennett, Hugh Walpole, Galsworthy, Deering, Booth Tarkington, and Edith Wharton. Whimsical and humorous works make up the fourth grouping, according to the speaker.

Mrs. Peabody's resume of fiction of contemporary times was comprehensive and inclusive. Book lists of non-fiction works which had been compiled by Miss Anna Tarr, librarian at Lawrence college, were distributed to the members.

A health questionnaire was filled out by each of the members before the program began, to determine the health status of the organization as a group. A 6 o'clock dinner was served and community singing took place. Thirty-six members were present.

RESCUE 13 MINERS
Brussels (AP)—Eighteen miners who were buried alive last yesterday in a cave in the Houssa colliery near Mons were rescued during the night unharmed. There was some doubt whether a slight earthquake or an explosion caused the cave-in which proved to be less serious than was first supposed.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE
© 1920 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

SUE crossed the floor to the dining room very quickly, stepped through the door, and closed it behind her, shutting the untidy view away from Harry Becker's eyes. Suddenly she was tired of making excuses. She wanted to fling the door wide open and say: "This is life when you are poor! This is the way you live when you haven't money! But even while she was thinking it, she was holding the door firmly. People could think, she mused, scarcely knowing that she did, but they mustn't act."

"You never did race me to the raft the night of the swimming party," Harry said a few minutes later. "You were so far ahead it wasn't a race. Let's try it tonight. I was passing, and I thought my cheerful face might have more appeal than my telephone voice."

She looked at his plump features and laughed. "I'd like to go. What time shall I be ready?" Then, more slowly as she remembered the other swimming party, "Will there be any other people?"

"Not that I know of. It's a test for two affairs. Don't look disappointed."

"I'm not." She was recalling the ungracious words which Sybil Lester and her crowd had uttered the night she had met them because they objected to Jack's interest in a girl who did not "belong" socially. "By the way, Harry, Sybil has invited me to her dinner party." She described her invitation and Judge Thornton's reaction which had approved of Sybil's step as a sign of atonement.

"Of course you can't go. That girl has an idea she's the daughter of Julius Caesar and can drag her captives behind her chariot. I'd get out of it too, if I could, but I have got to go. Diplomatic relations between our families. The children must go to the same tea parties, you know. I don't want to go. You understand that, don't you, Sue?"

He went away and Sue started to set the table, bringing order out of chaos. She arranged the linen, silver and china, swept the floor, and raised the windows so the cool evening air would come in. Then she went into the garden and gathered pink and blue lavender sweet peas for the beloved low blue bowl that had belonged to a very great grandmother and was still cherished in the family because it had so few heirlooms to treasure.

It was quiet in the garden and she leaned against the fence, almost dreading to go into the hot rooms again. The radio had found a softer melody and it drifted into the garden; men turned into the lawns of the houses down the street, and children ran to meet them, and sometimes a woman was waiting on the porch. Not often, though.

"They have so much to do to keep the children's rompers clean and the meals prepared that they can't make their husbands know they're glad they're home," Sue thought. "Does life always have to be like that? If they managed in the right way—"

But when one didn't have much money it was hard to be efficient. She glanced down at her slender, firm white hands, with the shining

The Tynymites

By Hal Cochran

THE sled, still standing almost straight, sailed on through the air at quite a gait. The Tynymites were dangling down and hanging on real tight. A funny way to ride, that's true, but what else could the whole bunch do? The wind had blown the sled wrong and they couldn't make it right.

"Aw, gee," said Cloway. "What's this? It seems that something's fies amiss each time we take another trip. I think I've had enough. We've been in caves and sailed through air. In fact, we've been more anywhere. Why, even on the ocean blue when it was good and rough."

"I only wish for once and all that we would very gently fall right down to earth and stay there. I would never leave again. We'd build a little house of wood. That isn't hard. I'm sure we could. We'd simply lie around and play games now and then."

"Oh, not for me!" another cried. "I'd rather have a thrilling ride. We're out for real adventure and I hope that's what we get. We've had real scares. I will admit, but we are all still feeling fit. There's nothing real bad happened to the bunch of us. Not yet!"

The other two agreed that he was just as right as he could be. They much preferred a thrilling time to leading all day long. Just then was fun's time? It seems that something's fies amiss each time we take another trip. I think I've had enough. We've been in caves and sailed through air. In fact, we've been more anywhere. Why, even on the ocean blue when it was good and rough."

RADIO COMMISSION HAS $300 TO MEET $15,000 PAYROLL

Federal Groups Trying to Solve Problem of Paying Employees

BY ROBERT MACK
Copyright, 1933, By Cons. Press
Washington—The federal radio commission is broke.

It has only $300 to meet a payroll of more than $15,000 for next month. And from present prospects, it looks like a hard winter for that little group of 55 workers, lawyers, engineers, clerks and messengers, who really run the radio destinies of the nation.

Things didn't look so gloomy just a month ago, when the commission suddenly became aware of the situation. Congress couldn't do anything, because it wasn't in regular session, so the commission appealed to the commerce department, which in past years out of the goodness of its heart, has helped the commission out of several monetary scrapes. The commerce department, again willing to be a good Samaritan, offered $25,000 of its funds, and promptly notified the treasury department about it.

But the long arm of the law stepped in yesterday. It was Comptroller General J. H. McCarl. In a learned opinion, he said that to transfer the money would be out of the bounds of the law. He vetoed it.

Situations of this kind are extremely rare in federal operations. But that doesn't mean that it is a good Samaritan, offered $25,000 of its funds, and promptly notified the treasury department about it.

not involved. Their payroll is carried in a separate fund, and assured at least until the end of the year. However, everybody else on the commission, from general counsel to messenger, is involved in the regular payroll deficit.

The commission itself is in a quandary. The first reaction of certain of its staff may not be quoted. Two of its stalwart commissioners Harold A. Lafount, and Charles McK. Saltzman have asked for an audience with the comptroller general to see if the thing can't be straightened out. They constitute the liaison committee of the commission.

There are several alternative propositions that may be tackled, should the comptroller general decide to relent, but only one is devoid of red tape. That is for President Hoover to issue an executive order making available the necessary appropriation. And this is not entirely beyond fulfillment, for it was Mr. Hoover, who as secretary of commerce, has benevolently stepped out of congress which for these years has been little temporary agency with a big permanent job.

To be sure, congress convenes on Dec. 3 in regular session, and might extricate the commission from its plight. But congress seldom trifles with mere deficiency appropriations at the beginning of a new session.

ANOTHER PLAN
Another possibility is that an arrangement be worked out with the commerce department under which the commission employees might temporarily be shifted to that payroll, but continue to perform their commission duties. But then the approval of the civil service commission, federal classification board and many other agencies as well as the commerce department would be needed.

Comptroller General McCarl transmitted his opinion to the secretary of the treasury. In substance, he told him not to transfer the $25,000. He said that upon the facts presented, and under the law he could not "authorize" it. The law under which it was planned to make the transfer, he added, did not cover funds for the payment of a payroll account of the radio commission.

And Radio's wheel of progress continues to turn. But the hearts of that little group in Washington, who see to it that that wheel is oiled and primed, are heavy.

Restores Youth In Aged By Blood Transfusions

BY MINOTT SAUNDERS

Paris—A new way of restoring youth to the aged, which does away with the expensive and uncertain grafting process and relies solely on some unknown quality which is found in the veins of youth, is being developed here by Dr. Helan Janowski, eminent Polish physician.

Blood taken from the veins of the young people and injected into the veins of the aged will restore youth for a period of three or four years, Dr. Janowski declares. He asserts that his method is simple, painless and safe.

MIXES IT WITH A CITRATE
Dr. Janowski, who was born in Lwow, Peru, of Polish parents, so long as he was young, but a doctor prepared by whitening the blood of a person aged about 30 years in a centrifugal machine. A citrate is put into the blood before it is whitening process and the resulting plasma is yellowish in color, is ready for injection.

"Twelve injections of about five grams each are given a patient," explained Dr. Janowski. "There is absolutely no danger to either person and the effect lasts three or four years. My work is confirmed by that of Dr. A. A. Carrel of the Rockefeller Institute and by Dr. Lumiere of Lyons."

Dr. Janowski does not promise to make the old young, but he does say he can give them new strength and make them feel better.

Scientists are against the word "rejuvenation" because it holds out more than is justified," he said. "The word 'rejuvenation' is not a scientific word. It is a word of the imagination. It must not be thought that rejuvenation is to be young, it is only to be younger relatively. In other words, less old."

"The blood of young folks has something that is gone from the aged. This unknown quantity, which we can call X, has not been isolated. In time we shall surely find out what it is, but we already know something about how it acts. We have done good things, but I wish for something more wonderful."

HE HAS TREATED HIMSELF
Dr. Janowski says he has taken his own treatment twice and finds that he has greatly benefited. He is able to cure other, notable cases, particularly that of a 70-year-old woman physician of Chicago who, he says, received his treatment and after the sixth or seventh injection she said: "Oh I can't wait to get back to America because I shall be so able to work now."

Another case was that of a Dutchman, a great linguist, who at 50 would forget immediately after speaking what he had said and in what language he had said it. After treatment according to Dr. Janowski, he became absolutely normal again.

Dr. Janowski has been in Paris for 25 years and is a very successful man. He speaks of his treatment as the "force de vie" says that a son, owing his life to his father, can at 20 give back the force of life to his father.

YOUNG WOMAN KNOCKED DOWN BY AUTOMOBILE

Miss Frances West, 19-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John West, 330 E. Pacific, was bruised about the hips and legs Tuesday afternoon when she was struck down by a car as she was crossing Meade street in front of the Appleton Court, where she is employed.

The driver of the car, Albert Knoll, 331 E. Wunneboogast, took the injured girl to St. Elizabeth hospital, where she was in an unconscious state for some time.

Miss West stepped out from behind a car parked on the left side of Meade street and was walking toward the car of her brother, parked on the right side, when the accident happened.

TAX BOBBED HAIR

Paris—You can't make a woman go anything against her will, and the Swiss nation of Uri has found that out. About a year ago it levied a tax of 12 cents on every female who had bobbed hair. But not only did the women refuse to pay the tax, the majority of them got their hair bobbed in defiance of the tax. There is now talk of lifting the tax.

COUNTY, STATE OR LOCAL GROUPS MAY NAME ARTERIALS

State Man Ends Discussion of Provisions in New State Traffic Code

Arterial highways may be designated by state or county highway committees or by local authorities under the new state traffic code according to a bulletin from Chester R. Ricker, a member of the state highway department, in the tenth of a series of weekly bulletins in which he discussed various phases of the new traffic code.

The same authorities may designate one-way streets, safety zones, but these must be clearly marked and after July 1, 1931, all traffic signs shall be uniform.

Mr. Ricker says: "Every operator of any vehicle must come to a full and complete stop within thirty feet of the near limits of an intersection where there is an arterial stop sign, but no stop is legal until an official sign or signal has been installed."

"The law very definitely explains traffic signal lights and the meaning of their colors, also it explains the proper and uniform whistle signals. Although the 'Green' signifies 'Go' it gives the right of way to pedestrians and vehicles lawfully within the cross walk or intersection at the time such signal is exhibited. Watch out for the 'Yellow' when approaching a green signal. Do not cross the intersection on the yellow unless a stop cannot be made safely. Here is an important point which every city traffic department should correct as soon as possible, for the law says: 'The yellow signal shall not be used after a 'Red' signal is shown and before the green signal appears. All traffic must stop for red and remain standing until the green shows.'"

"Whistles are often confusing so the law definitely states how it should be done. This is not the practice in many states so it should not be forgotten. 'One blast of the whistle shall mean that all traffic not within the intersection shall stop. On two blasts, traffic which has been waiting shall proceed while that halted by the one blast shall remain stopped. After blowing the first blast the traffic officer should see that the intersection is clear before giving the double blast.'"

OWNERS LIABILITY
"Any owner of motor vehicle carrying passengers for hire shall be liable for injuries done to any person by an employee as an operator whether the cause is wilful, negligent or otherwise."

"Drunk operators of motor vehicles used to convey passengers for hire are a serious liability to a motor vehicle owner because the law penalizes the owner five dollars a day for every day he retains in his employment any person 'addicted to drunkenness or excessive use of intoxicating liquor.' Furthermore, if an operator is convicted of intoxication, the owner of the vehicle must discharge such operator and for every day such operator is retained as an employee, the owner shall forfeit five dollars."

"Municipalities may regulate and license all chauffeurs and operators of taxicabs and may revoke such license when in their judgment public safety requires. Visitors are exempt for five days."

NON-PROFIT ARRESTS
"The number of arrests and convictions or amount of fines collected shall have no effect on the remuneration of traffic officers, neither shall they demand or solicit such compensation."

"While none of the provisions of the new Traffic Code can be changed or modified by local resolutions or ordinances, every council and county board should, for their own convenience and protection, pass an ordinance or resolution making their community conform with the regulations of this act."

"There are three groups of penalties. The first for minor misdemeanors, setting a fine not to exceed ten dollars for a first offense and not to exceed twenty-five for a second offense within a year."

"The second class also a misdemeanor calls for a fine not to exceed twenty-five for the first offense and one hundred or thirty days for second or subsequent offenses within a year. The operator's license can also be revoked for a year if he is convicted of a second offense."

"The third class, applying only to drunken operators, employee's keeping drunken drivers and officers sharing in fines, brings a hundred

Boston —(AP)— An orchestra of women, led by a young woman, has become the first regular radio feature to begin telling the world about the Massachusetts Bay Colony tercentenary next year.

The unit is known as the Massachusetts Tercentenary orchestra and has gone on the air weekly on WEBA of Boston and WBZ of Springfield. The leader is D'Zama Murielle who, despite her youth, has behind her five years as conductor of an orchestra.

Miss Murielle is working out carefully prepared programs designed to help tell in music the story of the earlier days in the Massachusetts colony.

Old Fashioned Method Outdoes New Formulas

Rhine, N. Y. —(AP)— Detectives who use chemicals, X-rays, vacuum tubes and ultra-violet light apparently are necessary in these days of synthesis, but here at Cornell University a technique has been developed that affords some strong talking points in favor of the old-fashioned principle of using the eyes aided by a glass.

The detective work here is done mostly on rare coins and antiques to discover whether they are genuine. The owners have come to the department of chemistry expecting some such chemical formula as "X equals P" as proof of age. They often are told by Dr. E. M. Chamot, professor of chemical microscopy: "Let us look at it first. Perhaps we can save time and the possibility of marrying this treasure."

He puts the objects under a microscope. Now, under the glass nothing appears natural, and a long training in the technique is necessary before the microscope detective may read the evidence before his eyes. This training is part of the Cornell system.

One of the tricks is to recognize marks showing that coins were cast, for ancient coin makers hammered their money.

A coin known as a gold stater from Lampsacus came here for analysis. The microscope showed that it had not been cast. A chemical test proved that the gold was of a fineness consistent with ancient origin.

But suspicion persisted, because the microscope indicated that certain dark portions, supposed to indicate the aging touch of Father Time, appeared to have been spread by a brush.

As it was desirable not to mar the coin, the microscope was employed to get a tiny piece of the "dark gold" from the coin without leaving a trace of cutting. Analysis proved that the apparent aging was an artificial coating of gum, starch and coloring matter and that the coin was an imitation.

A picture of the coin before and after the sample was extracted has been published by Dr. Chamot in a scientific paper. An arrow marks the spot where the cut was made, and with it goes a challenge for anyone to detect with the eye the skillful scar that the microscope made possible.

Girls Can Run Their Own Affairs, Jeweler Avers

Boston —(AP)— Women need not be afraid to enter business for themselves, is the advice given by Boston's pioneer woman jeweler as she surveys 15 years of experience in her own wholesale and retail establishment.

When Miss Anna L. Callahan left her bookkeeper's desk in 1914, she broke with a past that had bound her to that desk, working for some one else, for 17 years.

In place of serving someone else, she was determined to work for herself. But the jewelry trade was uncharted. It had never been done in Boston before.

Some said it was financial suicide. Some warned that she would fail before Christmas. But some agreed that if any woman could succeed, it was Miss Callahan, for she had been not only an efficient bookkeeper but a saleswoman who could keep business going while her employees were out on the road.

"In looking back over the 15 years since I started in business for myself," Miss Callahan says, "I find nothing that would prevent me from doing the same thing over again."

"I can assure all women that there is no mystery about succeeding in a commercial career, even where one is the manager. Add a little courage and common sense to a thorough grounding in the fundamentals of the line you choose and the odds are surely in your favor."

"Nor does one need a lot of capital. My own first bill of goods amounted to only $75. I lay awake many a night worrying about it, yet before the end of the month I had paid it and had incurred several times that amount in new liabilities."

It's time to CHANGE to winter grades

WINTER is near

Is your car ready? Three steps are necessary to put your car in shape to meet the heavy demands of cold weather driving.

- 1—Change the lubricant in the differential and transmission, using Polarine Transmission Oil (Winter) or Iso-Vis Lubricant (B).
- 2—Have the chassis thoroughly greased.
- 3—Flush the crankcase with Polarine Flushing Oil and refill with winter grade of either Iso-Vis or Polarine recommended for your car.

These three steps are vital to the good conduct and smooth operation of your car this winter.

Iso-Vis and Polarine meet every winter need. They maintain their viscosity and lubricate thoroughly at any operating temperature. They're highly refined and scientifically correct for all motors.

If you use Polarine—drain the crankcase every 500 miles for maximum efficiency and economy. If you use Iso-Vis, the constant viscosity oil—you can drive a thousand miles or more without changing, for Iso-Vis wears and wears and wears.

BAR NIGHT VIGILS AT PRIEST'S GRAVE

Beginning Next Monday
Daytime Hours Only Allowed in Cemetery

Malden, Mass. —(AP)— All night vigils at the grave of the Rev. Patrick J. Power, scene of the pilgrimages of thousands of people seeking aid for their afflictions, will be stopped Sunday. Officials of the Holy Cross cemetery today announced daytime visiting hours only beginning next Monday.

Tens of thousands of people, crippled, blind and diseased, have journeyed to the grave in the last three weeks on reports of miraculous healing there. Last Sunday 200,000 came and on two previous occasions throngs of 100,000.

Cemetery authorities also said they were considering plans of allowing four days of each week for visits by the afflicted, with the general public admitted the other three days. The daytime visiting hours announced will be between 7 o'clock a. m. and 5 o'clock p. m. A half hour before closing time the chapel bell will ring a warning to visitors.

A crowd of 55,000 came to the grave yesterday. Edward Canan, 35, of New York, a world war aviator who, companions said, shot down three German planes before he crashed himself over Verdun and suffered a paralyzed left side, prayed for relief for himself and other wounded veterans.

Mrs. Curtis Guild, widow of a former governor of Massachusetts, knelt with her sister, Mrs. John Lavalle, to ask aid for Mrs. Lavalle. Several cures were claimed during the day.

Tombstone Loses Its Last Vestige Of Former Glory

Tombstone, Ariz. — (AP) — Tombstone, roaring mining center of a nearly forgotten past, slipped another notch toward the limbo of ghost towns Friday as tabulation of ballots in a special election deprived it of its principal remaining glory — its position as the seat of historic Cochise-co.

By a vote of 2 to 1 the electorate decided to move the seat of government to Bisbee, where a $450,000 courthouse is to be built.

Tombstone put up a fight to retain this last vestige of its historic preeminence but the voting power of the town and the area adjacent to it has been so reduced in recent years that its partisans were far in the minority.

A celebration marking Tombstone's fiftieth anniversary was staged recently, serving somewhat as a gesture in the campaign preceding the election. Deserted buildings that once had housed the rich glitter of boom town saloons, cabarets and gambling halls were cleaned up and fitted out to resemble their old selves. The laughter of make-believe dance hall girls, the bark of the "six-gun" and the yipping of cowboys and miners was heard again—for a few days.

Then came the inevitable election. To the dilapidation of a handful of run-down buildings, most of them vacant and cobwebby, soon will be added the venerable courthouse, erected with great pride in 1889, vacant and silent as the rest.

TEACHERS DISCUSS HOW TO USE STUDY READER

How to use the study reader was the subject of discussion at the meeting of the fifth and sixth grade teachers held at Lincoln school Monday afternoon. Mrs. Selma Abendroth led the sixth grade discussion, and Mrs. Lella Mortimer the fifth. Findings of the reading tests given in the public schools were discussed and plans for reorganizing classes to obtain the greatest benefits from the tests were considered.

Miss Carrie Morgan, assistant superintendent of schools, gave an art talk on Le Page's "Joan d'Arc".

URGE COOPERATION TO SAVE LAKE FISHING

U. S. Commissioner of Fishing Describes Work of Conservation

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Washington Correspondent of the Post-Crescent)

Washington — Until all the state and national governments bordering on the Great Lakes work in closer harmony in enacting needful legislation, the problem of the alarming decline of the $15,000,000 Great Lakes fishery industry "cannot be considered as having been relieved."

Thus Henry O'Malley, federal commissioner of fisheries, sums up in his annual report for the fiscal year 1929 the problem of Great Lakes fisheries to the seriousness of which he called attention in his 1928 report.

"To the credit of several of the states, Michigan in particular, it should be said that the fisheries have been the subject of much closer study and important legislative action than for many years before," Commissioner O'Malley says in his report to the Secretary of Commerce made public today.

Among the recommendations for solving the problem are the resolutions adopted at the meeting of the International Fisheries Conservation Council of the Great Lakes held at Lansing, Mich., on Dec. 5, 1928.

The principle that in all fisheries legislation each species of fish be afforded such protection as will make certain that only fish that have spawned at least once shall be included in the commercial catch is one recommended for adoption by the Lake states. The adoption of closed seasons to commercial fishing the collection, by the states, the Province of Ontario, and the United States Bureau of Fisheries, of spawn for the hatcheries are also urged. Fishing should be limited during these seasons, the conference declared, to the needs of the federal, provincial, and state hatcheries.

The University of Wisconsin and Johns Hopkins university have aided in research in important fisheries problems in the last year, and the Wisconsin Geological and Natural History Survey cooperated in limnological studies of lakes in northern Wisconsin. One report covering work of several years past was published dealing with the taxonomy of the whitefishes of the Great Lakes system.

The question of the cause of the decline of the fisheries in the Great Lakes was investigated during the year, and a study was made of fishing gear to determine the most effective and at the same time the least destructive types. This has resulted in definite recommendations for legislation made to the various state governments concerned with Great Lakes fisheries.

Larger catches of fish were made on every lake in 1927 than in 1926, except Lake Ontario, Lake Erie, and the international lakes of Minnesota. The study of the fisheries problems of the upper Mississippi was not begun until after the close of the fiscal year on June 30, 1929, so no report is made on this section, but a special canvass of Lakes Pepin and Keokuk showed a smaller catch in 1923 than in 1927.

AUTOIST, GOING WRONG WAY, BACKS INTO TRUCK

Two cars were slightly damaged Tuesday afternoon when a machine driven by Harvey Wolfgram, 1416

N. Erb-st, which accidentally had been placed in reverse backed out of the Standard Oil station at the intersection of N. Richmond-st and W. Wisconsin-ave and after traveling across the street crashed into a truck owned by Otto Daelke.

Wolfgram had filled his car with gas, and after starting the motor put it into reverse instead of first speed. Becoming excited he stepped on the accelerator backed into the other machine at a high rate of speed. The Daelke truck was damaged, while the rear end of Wolfgram's car was caved in.

$430,202 SPENT ON RURAL SCHOOLS OF COUNTY LAST YEAR

Meating's Report Shows Treasury Has Balance of $109,000 on June 30

Operation of Outagamie-co rural schools cost $430,202.28 for the year ending June 30 according to the annual report of A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, presented to the county board this week.

Mr. Meating's report shows total receipts were $528,965.62 against $430,202.28 in expenditures, leaving a balance of $109,763.34.

Receipts were divided as follows: balance June 30, 1928, $91,947.31; state school apportionment, $95,089.75; from county school tax, $41,159.70; from district taxes, $201,822.02; special state aid, $7,250.84; tuition, $19,149.45; rent or sale of text books, $1,033.45; interest on school funds, $537.27; money borrowed, $111,745; sale of school property, $1,054.55; other receipts, $5,082.10.

Disbursements were as follows: for salaries of school board members, $5,608.70; for salaries of men teachers, $46,544.57; for salaries of women teachers, $142,636.28; for text books, $5,441.05; for library books, $1,627.19; for stationery and supplies, $6,470.29; for janitor service, $13,043.51; for fuel and janitor supplies, $20,534.39; for repairs, $15,521.01; for insurance, $2,915.44; for transportation of children, $3,673.21; for tuition to other districts, $2,973.59; for teachers' retirement fund, $3,509.61; for lands and buildings, $55,199.59; for equipment, $16,462.51; for payment of loans, $9,111.35; for interest, $1,740.44; for other payments, $7,250.84.

3 NEW SCHOOLS

Three new schools were built during the year in Districts 2 Joint Dale; District 4 Freedom and District 6 Joint Liberty. Extensive improvements were made in District 4 Joint Bovina, District 8 Center, District 1 Ellington, District 6 Greenville, District 3 Hortonia and District Joint 5 Osborn.

There are now less than half a dozen schools in the county which need extensive changes or placements and in this respect Outagamie-co is far in advance of most counties in the state," Mr. Meating said. "Equipment is not overdone in any school but all have a generous supply of the necessary tools of instruction."

The county superintendent points out that Outagamie-co has the unique distinction of being the only county in the United States to offer supervised music instruction to pupils in rural as well as graded school. That is, he says, the county was first last year and this year several other counties of the state have adopted the plan in use here. Mr. Meating said he has received letters from all over the United States relative to how the course of study is mapped out; how the plan is financed; and information as to its success. The first year there were 53 rooms offering this supervised instruction; this year it has increased to 83 rooms and next year Mr. Meating hopes to have the entire county enrolled.

There are 132 districts in the county, the report said, with 396 school board members; 152 teachers; and 6,824 school children. During the year the superintendent made 225 school visits; attended more than 100 evening meetings to talk on educational matters; held three general teachers meetings with 375 in attendance; and held many conferences with school board members and patrons.

268 PRESENT DAILY

A total of 268 children were present every day that school was in session making perfect attendance records, the report shows. There were 135 children who attended school outside of their own districts; various schools were closed a total of 69 days for contagious diseases and of this number 135 days were made up later in the year. Three schools were closed and the pupils transported to other districts. Four districts were voted to close their schools in the next year. Fifty-eight schools furnished free text books; eighty-six school societies were organized and 30 schools held community meetings; eighteen school fairs were staged; 139 schools have playground equipment; and 53 schools served farm lunches.

Sixty-five of the teachers employed in the rural schools were serving their first year; 35 were serving their second year; 7 their third year; three their fourth year; two each in the fifth and sixth years; and one in his seventh year.

"Cud" Tobacco Gives Way To Cigaret, Pipe Variety

Winston-Salem, N. C. (AP) — King Tobacco has located his manufacturing headquarters here.

Time was, some 15 years ago, when the tobacco raised in this section was the "stale cured" variety, used chiefly for chewing. Now the 80 per cent which once went into "cuds" has been reduced, and 60 per cent of the product goes to meet the increasing demand for cigarette and pipe tobaccos made from the "bright leaf" variety, resembling the tobaccos of the far east, but with more "body."

A few years ago four or five warehouses provided opportunity for auction sales of tobacco. Today eight well-equipped establishments are capable of selling the 1,000,000 or more pounds daily demanded by four sets of buyers. Moreover, 40 to 45 per cent of the products sold are exported, the quality of the leaf grown in this section being sought the world over because of its natural sweetness.

Sales, which exceed 40,000,000 pounds, worth more than $3,000,000, in a single season are governed by an incorporated trade organization well known as the Winston Tobacco association.

That idea of synchronization. It has its first test now in the recession facing business. And the very men who helped to get up the report are participating in the White House conference.

Analyzing the hesitation which some business men feel over the future, the government here has come to the conclusion that it can be overcome by evidence of action on the part of Washington. To implant confidence that business is going to be good, it will be necessary for the leaders of business to receive assurances from each other. Thus, if the motor industry needs greater markets to absorb its product, the federal government will put forth even greater efforts than ever before to stimulate exports. Commercial attaches throughout the world are being instructed to be keenly on the alert in getting information as to the forthcoming business opportunities.

LOOK TO CONSTRUCTION

Construction is the single major influence in business which is relied upon to give momentum to a business revival. It has lagged behind because of high money rates. Cheap money will be forthcoming within a relatively short time. By January, it is believed first mortgage money for good risks may again be on a five per cent basis, as it was for a little while about two years ago. This may mean the reappearance of second mortgage money at fair levels. The buildings of homes throughout the country will undoubtedly be stimulated if cheap money is available and this should mean an active real estate market.

Judging by the way the governmental group here is tackling the business situation, there is no longer any doubt that the stock market decline is felt to have been a greater influence psychologically toward pessimism than anyone believes possible. According to swing the country's thinking into channels of confidence and real expansion, the entire governmental machinery is being geared up. The purpose is unrelated to stock market values. These will rise only when earnings have been fully developed. The confidence is not the immediate future, for the momentum of the last quarter of 1929 is considered excellent. It is for January and February and the first six months of 1930 that this planning now is being intensified.

Protective Belt Of Air Reported By Scientists

Princeton, N. J. —(P)—A hitherto ignored link in the protective belt of atmosphere that shelters the earth from the intense radiation coming from space was reported to the National Academy of Sciences today by Robert A. Millikan, director of the California Institute of Technology.

This link is the nucleus, or center of atoms, something so minute it never has been seen. Dr. Millikan said it absorbs a sizable portion of the cosmic rays that come from all directions in space day and night.

Cosmic rays are exceedingly short wave lengths of energy. They may be comprehended by comparison with X-rays which are only about a millionth of an inch long, a brevity that enables them to penetrate opaque objects. Dr. Millikan said the longest cosmic rays appear to be about a third the length of X-rays and the shortest about one forty-fifth.

"It is a fact heretofore ignored in all theories," he said "that the nucleus plays an important role in the absorption of cosmic rays."

The absorption was found with assistance of Dr. G. H. Cameron recently while remeasuring cosmic rays with very sensitive instruments in mines, in water, on Pikes peak and other mountains. They found that the shortest rays penetrate 300 feet into earth, more than twice the depth shown in their previous tests.

These new figures, said Dr. Millikan, are "checked beautifully" by the German physicist Regener, who finds the rays down to 700 feet. Dr. Millikan believes they originate from energy turned loose by creation of matter in cold, interstellar space.

He said the shortest may come from creation of helium from hydrogen and the longest from creation of iron.

A discovery about formation of crystals, remarkable because mathematical calculations gave the first clue to its existence, was reported in papers by Fritz Zwicky and Alexander Goertz of the California Institute of Technology.

Zwicky calculated and Goertz found the proof with a microscope. Atoms long have been known to form patterns in crystals, and the discovery reveals a secondary pattern of blocks, produced by atoms packed more densely in some places than others, in lots of 50,000 to ten million each. This explains things not fully understood heretofore by metallurgists including why atoms dissolve under acid more freely from some places than others.

ORDERS PROPER ATTIRE FOR RAIL EMPLOYEES

Chicago —(P)—M. J. Flanagan, having gained a reputation on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad as a style creator — it was he whose edict tore red flannel shirts from the workers last summer — has taken another step in the same direction. He has decreed form fitting attire for switchmen, shanty men, round house helpers, et al.

"Loose clothing is dangerous around moving machinery," said Flanagan, who is in charge of the railroad's safety bureau. "Unfastened cuffs, dangling sleeves and poor shoe soles are often the cause of accidents. Violators of the order may find themselves separated from the payroll."

Flanagan's order banning the red flannel shirt was predicated on the theory that it caused its wearers to be mistaken for danger signals.

DIETING GIRL BRINGS TRENCH MOUTH MENACE

Chicago —(P)—Kiss a girl who is dieting and blame no one but yourself if you get "trench mouth," the Chicago Dental society today advised its public.

"Trench mouth," the society said, is prevalent, and women on a diet are particularly susceptible to it because their resistance has been lowered by dieting. It is for her sake that the society urges oscillatory abstinence, at least for the nonce.

CAKE-EATERS' CHOICE

Chicago —(P)—To the American Bakers' association the year 1930 looks like a big one for chocolate cake-eaters.

Last year, it was angel food; this year, Devil's food. Next year, chocolate cake, even if it is inclined to be fattening. The association is holding annual convention.

Deer Hunt Season Claims Human Toll In Michigan

Houghton, Mich. —(P)—In the short time since the deer hunting season opened, the woods of upper Michigan have proved the pitfall for at least four hunters; brought death to four more and injuries to at least eight.

Three more men from the lower peninsula cities "found" themselves yesterday in widely separated forest sections after being lost more than a day. At the same time, one man was injured in a "break" accident when his car ran into the deer he wanted to hunt, and another was wounded in the leg as an unloaded gun proved to be loaded.

Joseph Ogea of Clarkburg, found his way back to civilization yesterday when his car ran into the deer he wanted to hunt. He had wandered in the woods for 36 hours.

Lee Smith of Bay City, was without food for the same period while he followed a small stream in western Marquette-co to its mouth. Near Gladstone, Vincent LaVelle, 22, of Detroit, spent 24 hours in swamp-land while friends searched for him. Edward Rose of Flint, Mich., lost the sight of his right eye after a collision between his auto and a deer when one of the animal's antlers was poked through the windshield and into his face. Near Lansing Roy Whitmore shot himself in the hip when his gun which he thought not loaded, discharged accidentally.

The four hunting deaths all occurred earlier in the Pewabic Iron country around Marquette.

A light fall of snow during the night over most of the peninsula cheered the thousands of hunters who were hopeful it would aid them in tracking down deer today.

UTILITIES READY TO FINANCE WITH MORTGAGES, BONDS

Turn Downward in Interest Rates Leads to Plans for Expansion

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE
(Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press)

Wall Street, New York—Financial Review and Outlook. The heads of the largest public utility operating groups as well as executives of public utility holding companies, are already making plans to resume financing through the medium of preferred stocks and mortgage or debenture bonds. They believe that with the turn downward in interest rates, which are expected to go considerably lower in the next few months, they will be able to obtain money on a basis that will warrant a return to the forms of capital issue that prevailed up to the end of last year.

Some of these companies have been drawing down their cash reserves during the period when it was not possible to sell bonds or preferred stocks to the public and when they were not willing to finance with common stocks.

There were, however, many other public utility corporations, among them the newer holding concerns, which made liberal use of junior securities, so that the total of public utility stocks issued for the ten months to October 31 was approximately $1,401,000,000 compared with $355,000,000 in the corresponding period of 1928.

FEWER BONDS

At the same time the output of public utility bonds and notes was only $560,000,000 as against $1,315,000,000 in the ten months of 1928 and nearly $1,500,000,000 in the same period of 1927.

The programs of the big public utility operating companies are not to be modified by the conditions growing out of the collapse in Wall Street. There are many important projects under way for increasing power units and extending the radius of super power lines. On the other hand the experiences of the last few weeks have been such that for the time being further mergers of public utility companies and the creation of new holding corporations will not be popular. It has developed that the prices paid for control of a number of the operating and holding companies taken into several of the giant public utility corporations were higher than warranted by earnings.

This fact, together with the mass of undistributed stock, caused declines in the new holding company shares ranging from 50 to 80 per cent.

When the bond market began to decline late in the spring domestic and foreign issues, several of the largest public utility companies were negotiating with their bankers to refund a considerable amount of 6 per cent long term debenture bonds into 4 1/2 and 5 per cent mortgages and to revise their capital structure with respect to outstanding 7 per cent preferred stocks.

TIME TO RECONSIDER

They now believe the time has come to reconsider these adjustments and that they will be able to carry them through, with money rates approaching the levels of a year and a half ago and with the investing public chartered by its losses in common stocks and more inclined to buy for yield and safety than for appreciation.

Most of the prominent 6 per cent public utility debentures which had approached their call prices of 110 are now quoted around par. It is believed additional amounts of such debentures would find a good market if offered by the strongest companies in the next few months.

The 6 per cent public utility preferred stocks have mostly all come down to a 6 per cent basis or lower and are already attracting considerable investment interest. One of the strongest of the public utility mortgage group during the bond market break has been that of the 4 1/2 per cent issues which, while much below their original prices, have held steady while higher interest bearing obligations have been under pressure. In this group are a number that were made legal for savings banks in New York state a year ago.

Unquestionably there will also be a certain amount of financing by the public utility companies with both bonds and preferred stocks converted into common stocks, for the public has developed a taste for equities which must be satisfied in some degree. From present indications, however, immediate financing by the corporation group that has been taking the largest amounts of money out of the investment market recently will be along lines similar to those prevailing in the period between 1925 and the middle of 1927.

Woman Changes Her Mind In Favor Of Long Skirts

BY ADELTA KERR
Associated Press Staff Writer

New York — (AP) — American women are changing their clothes, their manners and their minds.

The last variation is scarcely a novelty, their husbands are heard to remark. But the others, they say, promise surprising results to figures—both feminine and mathematical.

Skirts have come down and frocks at the waist. That means new wardrobes that strike friend husband's bank balance a blow.

And when a femme is arrayed in her valmet chit d'ips and sweeps, she finds unconsciously the man who went with last year's sports clothes don't belong. That means a return to the soft voice and gentle graces which recall grandmother's day.

At first she declared she'd never make the change. The short skirts of yesterday were too comfortable. But she has changed her mind. She is dropping her daytime skirts four to seven inches below the knee, her evening skirts to her instep, and she wears a belt where her waist is not around her hips.

She is falling in line with the procession, but it's giving her some anxious hours.

"Ever since the couturiers over in Paris spoke a few public words about clothes several months ago," a well-known society woman said recently, "the women in America have spoken a great many loud words about the results. But in private—"

"Aloud—to her friends and especially to her husband—she says they're chic and different, but in the privacy of her dressing room her words have a different sound. There, while she struggles to match a trailing hemline to last year's coat, her 1923 figure to her 1929 belt, she speaks her mind.

"Her draperies hang below her coat and that's ungraceful. So she gets a new coat and that's expensive."

The couturier looks with a surprised eye on madame's struggles.

"What is all the shouting about?" asks Mrs. Louise Selby, an American woman from Paris, who makes clothes for both French and American women and who now is visiting in America.

"My customers ask me, 'are we really going to wear long skirts?' The answer is: Just long enough to be graceful, nothing that will interfere with our activities. Aren't you tired of looking at assorted legs?"

"And the high waistline? The young and the very slim can stand the real thing. For the others it will be mostly suggested by tucks and ingenious cutting.

"Corsets? No, no and no. The sensible woman will never wear the boned corset again. They are too intelligent. But they will wear a

New York—Theresa Helburn, executive director of the Theatre Guild, expects the talkies to improve the stage. She believes there will be fewer theatres, but better ones, playing to more discriminating audiences; the theatre must cease to be a business; it must become either an art or nothing at all.

THREE BROTHERS GET TERMS FOR BURGLARY

Two Eldest of Trio Go to Waupun. Youngest Goes to Reformatory

Three brothers, Anthony, Marcus and Stanley Messers all of Chicago, were sentenced to terms in state prison at Waupun and the Green Bay reformatory when they pleaded guilty to of burglary—summer homes and cottages at Rockland beach on the east shore of Lake Winnebago in 1928. The trio were arrested in 1929 and the trial was held in Chicago last Monday afternoon.

and Marcus were sentenced to Waupun for intermediate sentences of three to five years, while the younger brother was given a sentence of three to four years in Green Bay reformatory.

The two elder brothers were taken to Waupun late Monday afternoon by Sheriff J. B. Diedrich, while the other brother was taken to Green Bay Tuesday.

The trio were brought back from Chicago where they were being held by police, two weeks ago by Sheriff Diedrich. They admitted the ransacked and burglarized several cottages at Rockland beach, and then left on a trip which took them to Chicago where they were arrested.

HOLD WIFE AFTER MATE'S BODY IS FOUND IN HOUSE

Ignored Suicide Which Occurred Before Armistice Day, She Declares

St. Joseph, Mich. (AP)—Mrs. Emma Kohlbeck, 33, was in Berrien county as a material witness today while county authorities were investigating the circumstances surrounding the fatal shooting of her husband, Frank M. Kohlbeck, 35, at his farm home near Three Oaks some time this month.

According to officers Mrs. Kohlbeck had left her husband's body on the kitchen floor where it had fallen, and had counted living in the house after merely closing the door of the room. She told officers that Kohlbeck shot himself some time before Armistice day.

Neither neighbors nor county authorities learned of the affair until yesterday when Miss Mollie Bergman of Chicago, a sister of Mrs. Kohlbeck came here after receiving a letter from her sister requesting her to come to Three Oaks to arrange a quiet burial. Miss Bergman informed Deputy Sheriff Ber Dier of Three Oaks who with other officers went to the farm.

Entering the house the officers found Kohlbeck's body on the kitchen floor in an advanced stage of decomposition. At his side was a .24 calibre, single shot pistol, and a stove poker. Untrouled food was on the table.

Mrs. Kohlbeck, a native of Hamburg, Germany, who speaks little English, told the officers she found her husband dead shortly after 1 p. m., on Oct. 11, a day she was unable to remember.

Mrs. Kohlbeck met her husband in Germany in 1921 and they were married on an ocean steamer. Kohlbeck was a native of Wisconsin. At one time they are said to have lived in La Grange, Ill., where Kohlbeck was a tailor.

MEEKER'S CAR STOLEN FROM PARKING PLACE

Menasha — Menasha police recovered a sedan belonging to Dr. W. H. Meeker of Appleton, which was stolen from in front of the Elks building at Appleton late Tuesday afternoon. The sedan was located at the corner of London and Sixth st. where it evidently had been abandoned. The owner was notified of its recovery and called for it Wednesday noon.

An automobile owned by Dr. W. H. Meeker, E. Lawrence-st, was stolen Tuesday evening from its parking place in front of the Elks club, according to police reports. The car is a 1924 Ford sedan, bearing license number 5-20-451 the motor number is 9215-632.

Police here are watching for a 1927 model Chevrolet coupe bearing the license number C-209-395, which was stolen on the evening of Nov. 17 at Sheboygan.

IOWA CORN-HUSKING OVER HALF FINISHED

Des Moines, Iowa (AP)—With 60 per cent of the corn-husking completed, Iowa farmers are awaiting frostings of the ground before finishing the work. Charles D. Reed, government meteorologist, said today in his weekly crop report.

The field is now too soft to draw full loads of corn through them and the husks of the corn are too damp and too tough for rapid hand husking, Reed said. He reported some of the new corn had been shelled and marketed. Winter wheat and pastures have made good growth, he added.

"FEELING FINE THANKS TO THIS NEW KONJOLA"

Man Tells How New Medicine Relieved Him of Ten Years of Stomach and Kidney Trouble

MR. GEORGE L. BRADLEY

"I had been troubled for ten years by the poor condition of my stomach and kidneys," said Mr. George L. Bradley, 2150 Foye street, Des Moines, Iowa. "My stomach was in such a poor condition that foods caused much misery. My kidneys, too, caused their share of trouble. There was constant pain in the small of my back. I was discouraged over my inability to find relief."

"I finally decided to give Konjola a chance. What a wonderful surprise there was in store for me. Now I am feeling fine, thanks to this new Konjola. My stomach is in fine condition, and I can eat and enjoy foods that I dared not touch before. The pain in my back is gone and my kidneys never cause me the slightest distress. Konjola ended all my troubles and I am glad to tell others of this wonderful medicine."

Konjola is sold in Appleton, Wis., at Schmitz Bros. Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

Missing Links Still To Be Found, Prof Avers

Washington—(AP)—"Missing links" connecting man with other mammals, on which the scientific world would agree, have in the opinion of Gerrit S. Miller, Jr., Smithsonian scientist, yet to be found.

"In the place of such demonstrable links," he says in the institution's annual report, "we now possess nothing more than some fossils so fragmentary that they are susceptible of being interpreted either as such links or something else."

"If a human 'missing link' is to be found at all, it must be sought among the fossil remains of mammals long ago extinct, since there is no living animal known which possesses the required peculiarities."

His report and conclusions were founded on an exhaustive review of the controversies among scientists over two "finds," the Java ape man and the Pittdown man.

The Java remains consist of a skullcap, a femur, and two lower molar teeth, found by Dr. Eugene Dubois; the Pittdown evidence, found

THANKSGIVING DINNER $1 CHEAPER THIS YEAR

Chicago—(AP)—A family of five can get a Thanksgiving dinner and $1.50 change from a $10 bill this year, the Mercantile Exchange estimated today. Last year one got only 50 cents change.

The new menu includes oyster cocktail, celery and olives, roast turkey, sweet and mashed potatoes, cranberry sauce, turnips or peas, rolls and butter, pumpkin pie and coffee.

The reason the cost is $1 less than last year, the exchange explained, is due to the fact that turkey is approximately 12 cents a pound cheaper. Oysters are a fraction lower and the other commodities are about the same price as last season.

Complete Five Fights For Thursday's Amateur Card

THOMAS, MILLER, BUSH, WOLFE ARE AMONG BATTLERS

Strongest Program This Season Expected To Draw A Record Crowd

WITH an except one bout arranged for Oscar Johnson post of the American legion, Wednesday has gone out to line up two boys for the six and final fight for Thursday evening's amateur main program at Armory G.

The strongest card ever to be staged in Appleton has been prepared for Thursday night, according to all indications, and features a group of boys who have shown well here on other programs. Everyone is a battler and a most thrilling evening is looked for.

Winston "Windy" Thomas, New London, youngster is one of the boys being brought back for Thursday's card. Thomas fought here on the first amateur program and made a big hit with his clever boxing and powerful punching. He is scheduled to meet Tommy Dennis of Milwaukee, one of the boys from the Milwaukee Athletic club and the bout should prove a real one. Little is known about Dennis but if he spends his spare moments about the M. A. C. gym he should know plenty about fighting.

Freddie Bush of Fond du Lac also is coming back. Bush is scheduled to take with Russell Johnson post of the American legion, Wednesday has gone out to line up two boys for the six and final fight for Thursday evening's amateur main program at Armory G.

Ben Mosel of Milwaukee, Mosel packed a hefty punch and rocked the chief on several occasions besides deflating the Indian with a peculiar manner of handling. So Thursday night the two boys will begin where they left off last month.

Tommy Dennis was scheduled to box with Bush, another tough chap from Sheboygan, but Kath injured a hand and Miller was obtained for the Milwaukee team.

Dick Wolfe, Appleton's contribution to the card has drawn Howard Munson of Fond du Lac as his opponent and indications are the fight will be a real one. Both boys can box and slug, each possessing a right which if it would mean points or at least a heavy outlook Wolfe was on the last program here, Munson on the first.

The fifth fight for Thursday is between Hans An, Oshkosh, who fought Dick Wolfe last week and Eddie Hansen, Fond du Lac. Hansen will be remembered as the chap who went out with Eddie Hansen on the first program. They then stood toe to toe slugging away until they could not lift their arms when the last round came along.

And the sixth bout still is in the making.

MILLER CORDS IN FIRST CAGE WORKOUT

Seek Games With Other Basketball Teams in Valley and State

The first practice session for the Miller Cords basketball team was held Tuesday evening at legion hall, Little Chute, with all members of the team on hand except Kotol and Zussman.

Shooting, passing and a few tip-off plays marked the first night's workout. Among the men who reported for practice were Milton Scheurle, Arnie Hillman, Roger Ashman, Elmer Dunn and Bob Cole.

The Cords have scheduled their first game for Thursday evening, Nov. 28 at Neenah. The game is being played at Thanksgiving night. Team training games with the Miller Cords should visit Milton Scheurle, Appleton High School, Appleton.

TEXAS CHRISTIAN GRIDDEERS HAVE FLU

Southerners Almost Crippled as They Prepare for Baylor

Fort Worth, Tex. —(AP)— With victories behind them, to defeat and no less, the Texas Christian university football players were badly under the weather today, an epidemic of influenza having struck at the most crucial point of the season.

Two members of the squad suffered so severely they had to go to bed and the others were barely able to show up for practice last night. Baylor, one of the strongest teams in the southwest, must be faced Saturday and the following week Southern Methodist university, the only other undefeated team in the southwest, is scheduled.

The malady was supposed to have resulted from the long cold which the team took from Austin last week after defeating Texas.

When The Irish Beat Southern California

Before a $200,000 crowd, the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame battled their way to victory over Southern California by the scant margin of 13 to 12 in one of the most spectacular football games of the season at Chicago. At the left you see Aspit, Trojan backfield ace, eluding his pursuers as he raced to a touchdown. At the right is Joe Savoldi, number 54, Notre Dame fullback, showing his heels to the Californians in a trek around right end.

HARMON OUSTED AS CHICAGO STADIUM ORGANIZATION HEAD

Report Ringlings Have Bought Stock and Want Dempsey as Matchmaker

CHICAGO —(AP)— Paddy Harmon has seen his dream of a huge indoor sports arena become reality—in the creation of the Chicago Stadium—but will watch someone else guide its affairs henceforth.

Harmon relinquished the presidency of the Chicago Stadium corporation last night at the demand of the board of directors, having served since the $7,000,000 building was spent last March. He controls, he says, 42 1-2 per cent of the stock in the corporation, and will continue as a member of the board of directors and the executive committee.

Harmon's successor was not named. The resignation of the planner and promoter of the Stadium project, was presented and accepted after a long conference with the board of directors. Sidney N. Strotz, secretary and treasurer of the Stadium corporation, yesterday said Harmon's resignation had been requested, and Harmon had announced that he would fight to retain office.

After the meeting Harmon issued a statement in which he said he previously had asked to be permitted to resign, and that it finally had become possible for him to give up the office. He said that only the "kindly feelings" existed between himself and the other members of the board, and that he would stand by as a member of the board, to give his successor the benefit of his experience and advice. He failed to make any attempt to reconcile the fight for his rights' statement with the "kindly feelings" one given out after his resignation had been accepted.

Strotz said the directors wished Harmon's resignation, to place a more experienced business man in the presidency, although he denied the board was not satisfied with Harmon's work which has included the promotion of two world championship fights and numerous other big game attractions.

Among the standout financial successes presented by Harmon were the Loughran-Walker, and Cannon-

Five Grid Teams Have Best Claim To National Title

BY LAWRENCE PERRY Copyright 1929

NEW YORK —Disregarding leading scoring teams, teams that have not been beaten and other misleading statistics concerning the relative strength of football eleven, five teams have emerged in these mid-November days as the greatest of them all—Notre Dame, Tulane, Purdue, Tennessee and Pittsburgh. They are real gridiron outfits, this quintet. Pitt and Notre Dame have a poise on the field, a knowledge, a deftness in the execution of all that pertains to the art of football that thrills and inspires.

The west coast, as it now seems, will get a chance to view Pitt at Pasadena and if the weather is not so warm as to cause the fanatics to curl up after the manner of frying things, the carnival makers in the rose bowl will see something to open their eyes.

As for Notre Dame, that slender one point margin of victory over southern California was really inadequate in depicting the relative merits of the two eleven. As the writer suspected, and stated, the South Denders were too smart for the Trojans. As there was greater deception in their attack so was there greater variety and it had a driving force which Southern California plays lacked. No better interference has ever been seen than that which the Irish displayed, notably after the first period and the Trojans' ends withered before it.

Carnegie Tech has been nobody's set up all season. Ask Notre Dame, But Pittsburgh had the plays to set that marvelous Rumanian-American, Toby Uanssa, loose and let him run wild. The Panthers now have only to meet and to defeat Penn State on Thanksgiving Day and unless the Irish blows badly they will accomplish this feat and so end the season gloriously.

California is yet another fine team. She did not have the easy time that most persons, not knowing the situation, expected. But the Bears have Stanford in the offing and there was a sense in shooting the works against the Huskies. The Golden Bruins have an itching for revenge so far as Stanford is concerned and unless the writer is greatly mistaken they are going to break it fully and freely this year. But, with the west coast championship won, it is not so sure that California would be willing to oppose Pitt at Pasadena. Berkeley authorities have had no fondness for this tournament hip-drome and it would not be at all surprising were they to decline to listen to an invitation. Still, a desire to match strength against the odds toward this rose carnival.

Yale's running attack in the second half of the Princeton game in point of hard running by the ball carrier McLennan, of Lake Forest, Ill. chiefly in point of offensive line play and interference that was hard-hitting, cohesive and comprehensive was as fine offensive as the writer has seen this year anywhere. And he has traveled quite a lot.

Not in years has an Eli team succeeded in getting so much power ahead of the ball. Using the Stanford double wingback for sweeps Yale reminded one of a good Glenn Warner outfit and the outlook for Yale's attack were beautifully done. The interference poured through holes that the linemen made in available stream.

Only a superb fighting defense by the Tigers prevented a runaway game in that second half. Princeton's attack consisted nothing of merit and what she showed Yale handled well inside the danger point. This Yale team has developed real strength in the running game but she will need some overhead stuff if she is to defeat Harvard. At least so it would seem. Yale must weave an aerial attack into her scheme of advance if she expects to score more frequently than the Crimson. Even without it, Yale's running offense if it clicks as it did in that second half in the bowl may be regarded as good for at least one touchdown, perhaps more.

BADGERS WORK HARD FOR LAST BATTLE

Meet Minnesota's Thundering Herd Saturday at Minneapolis

Madison —(AP)— Thoughts of last year's defeat spurred Wisconsin's football team in its final week of practice last night, and the Badgers went through a husky scrimmage on a blanketed field.

When Minnesota's thundering herd plays host to the Badgers, it will find a team versed in a revamped offensive style with several exciting plays that two weeks' preparation are expected to find in perfect order.

Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite, after the usual warning of exercises, sent his varsity through a long offensive dummy scrimmage, this practice was a test of reliability for the new plays, and if scoring power against the Badgers should count Saturday.

After the dummy workout, freshmen teams with "Buckets" Goldenberg, Wisconsin's 199 pound yearling fullback, impersonating rampaging Bronko Nagurski, gave a display of the Gopher attack. Although generally stopped by the husky varsity, Goldenberg was able to rip the line much as the "Big Nag" and punctured the regulars for several sizable gains.

Twelve members of the varsity football squad will play their last game Saturday. The team leaves here Friday morning, arriving in St. Paul that night, where it will stay until shortly before game time.

HUSKIE AND CHICAGO CENTERS BIG FELLOWS

Chicago —(AP)— Four hundred and sixty pounds of football players will be opposed at center when the University of Washington eleven meets Chicago on Stagg Field Saturday. Paul Jessum, Washington captain, whose six feet, seven inches and 235 pounds make the biggest man in collegiate football, will represent the huskies, and Charles "Buck" Weaver, six feet four inches and 225 pounds, will start at center for the Maroons.

RADICK ON SIDELINES AS MARQUETTE WORKS

Milwaukee —(AP)— Co-Captain Kenneth Radick sat on the sidelines today while his Marquette mates practiced for the Thanksgiving day game with Kansas Aggies. Radick was injured in last week's game with Boston College. Trainers believed, however, that he will be in shape for the Aggie game.

Schmeling Wants Large Guarantees To Fight

NEW YORK —New Yorkers are not wont to scoff any time they are told about a new stadium, but the local palaces of sport, Madison Square Garden, and the big money promoters are willing to pay to coral some of the major fistic attractions the garden people are supposed to monopolize. Last spring the writer saw the huge Chicago stadium in process of construction and told the boys about it. As usual the reply was a merry ha ha. Now that the Chicago stadium is a reality and drawing big money, the wise boys are doing the best to get their fighters in on some of the lights there. The latest on the list to meet with the line big auditorium is Atlantic City. Has Bull, Taylor, Gunn and Duffy have offered Max Schmeling two hundred and fifty thousand dollars to fight a prominent heavyweight there February 22. "Who?" asks the wise ones, "will they get for Schmeling to make it worth while paying the German such a sum?" A logical question but the promoters must have something up their sleeves or

VIKES CARLETON TO PLAY U. W. "11"

Games Scheduled for Oct. 4, 1930 Need Athletic Board Approval

Lawrence and Carleton college football teams, both Mid-West eleven, will play the university of Wisconsin in a double header Oct. 4, 1930, according to present indications. The game will be in the nature of a practice battle for the Badgers the varsity squad being split into two equal teams.

Announcement from Carleton that it had scheduled a game with the Badgers for Oct. 4, just about closes arrangements for the double header. Lawrence officials previously stated they had a game with the Badgers for the same afternoon and were awaiting approval by the university athletic board.

EAST WONDERS IF BOOTH WILL PLAY AGAINST HARVARD

El's Midget Halfback Works Out in Street Clothes Tuesday

BY WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK—(AP)—Headed by the forty-eight Yale-Harvard clash at Cambridge, Mass. Saturday's football card through the year is small but important, with success or failure for the season hanging in the balance in at least three of the games. Harvard is always ready to all it a good campaign when Yale can be defeated, and vice versa, and though and Lafayette feel the same way about each other, for this particular season, the Forham-Bucknell game at the Polo Grounds assumes much the same importance despite the absence of any natural rivalry between the teams.

Interest at New Haven centers not so much about what the team is actually doing upon the practice gridiron as in whether Albee Booth will be able to face the Crimson. The midget No. 4 back was the only Yale regular who did not get into a uniform yesterday. He appeared at the field and went through a few formations in street clothes, but then departed for an infirmary for further treatment of his charlie horse.

Conflicting statements last week regarding Booth's chances to play against Princeton caused many football sharps to discount the announcement of George Connors, Yale trainer, that Booth would face Harvard at some stage of the game.

An oddsmaker of the game, two weeks ago to end Lafayette's run of ten straight victories, Lehigh now is proping about for an upset to pull itself through next Saturday's game against its ancient rival. Measured through their common games against Rutgers, Lafayette should be highly avowed. A victory for Lehigh would end the middle three season in a tie, with one victory for each team.

Harry Stuhldreher has challenged the Villanova forces for the clash with North Carolina state on Saturday, hoping for a scoring punch. Temple seems well prepared to give a good account of itself against Drake, champion of the Missouri valley conference. The Owls scored three touchdowns yesterday in a scrimmage against the scrubs.

The Navy expects a mediumly hard game against West Virginia Wesleyan, its final dress-rehearsal for the Wesleyan, not so strong as last year, should serve the Army in the same manner a week before the Notre Dame game.

Approaching its final game against Bucknell on Saturday, Fordham has a perfect record, except for two tie games, one with Davis and Elkins and another with West Virginia. To gain its first 1,000 per cent winning record, Fordham must halt a Bucknell eleven which has rallied sharply from an early defeat by Washington and Jefferson.

30-YEAR-OLD HEAD OF COLLEGE READY TO LEAD IN FIELD

Has Formed Ideas and Plans to Serve as Inspiration to Others

BY OWEN L. SCOTT
Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press
Chicago — Inauguration today of Robert Maynard Hutchins as president of the University of Chicago, finds this 30-year-old executive prepared to set pace for his elders among important college heads.

Already he has formed ideas and planned a course that may serve as an inspiration to the forty other presidents of higher educational institutions here to help induce him into office. The mere fact that this new president will not be thirty-one until January has not served to hinder him in his position.

In his first work he has met the problem of football and has not been awed by it. Likewise he is confronted with the problem of adequate salaries attractive enough to draw the most eminent scholars, and he has set out vigorously to meet it.

"Continue to pay janitors salaries to college professors and you must be prepared to expect your children to receive teaching upon a level which will fit them to be janitors," he has told leading Chicagoans. "I can hardly reward with respect or approval professors who marry for money and teach for love."

The effort is to be made to induce those who make gifts to the university to contribute more in proportion for operating expenses and less for building. So generous have the people of the city been that $235,000 has been expended in buildings at the university in the past five years.

The football problem grows from the fact that the University of Chicago has managed to develop losing teams for several years past.

GIVE REASONS

High scholastic requirements and lack of special inducement to athletes are given as reasons. Some of the Coach A. Alvarez Stagg at his long service has reached the retirement stage. President Hutchins has met that problem by praising Coach Stagg as the greatest coach of all time. And when it was suggested that select a replacement, he possibly be lowered to meet the needs of some athletes, he said:

"Oh, I don't believe there is any prospect of that. If we should try to bring the others up to our standards. Of course, if it is asked whether I would ever have a winning football team than a losing team, I would say that I prefer a winning team."

getting a unique president. From the time John D. Rockefeller was persuaded by thirty-four-year-old William Rainey Harper, to give $500,000 for establishment of the institution on condition the people of Chicago contributed $100,000, only thirty-eight years have elapsed.
Now President Hutchins stands at thirty to run an institution with assets of approximately $50,000,000, a faculty of 700, and a student body of 14,000, the larger portion of whom are graduate students.
The University of Chicago turns out more Doctors of Philosophy than any other American University. It has given the country its only three Nobel prize winners in Physics — Albert A. MANY RECORDS SET UP IN AVIATION BY PILOTS THIS YEAR

13 New Marks Established by U. S., German, French, English Aviators

By ALLEN QUINN
Aviation Editor
(Associated Press Feature Service)

Washington—(AP)—This year has been a field day for record smashing by aviators of the United States, Germany, France and England.

Thirteen new world marks have been placed on the rolls of the Fédération Aéronautique Internationale, the governing body for aeronautics contests, but only four were for major events.

Two of these major records went to the United States, the sea-plane altitude record of 33,500 feet by Lt. A. O. Sweeney of the navy, and the motor-driven endurance record finally placed at 420 hours 17 minutes by Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brien of St. Louis.

Great Britain's contribution was the performance of Squadron Leader A. H. Gurney, who raised the sea-plane speed record nearly 40 miles an hour to 357.7 miles an hour.

The fourth major record, the land plane altitude mark of 41,754 feet set by Willi Neuenhagen of Germany, is to be the object of another assault soon by Lieutenant Sweeney.

German aviators took the lion's share of the 13 new records, being responsible for six. Three were made in the United States and three in France. Four of the German records were the work of one man.

The nine other new records this year are:

Speed for 5,000 kilometers: Gilder and Weiss of France, 116.82 miles an hour.

Speed for 1,000 kilometers (with pay load of 1,000 kilograms): Paillard and Campan of France, 137.193 miles an hour.

Distance, air line, light planes: D. S. Zimmerly, Marshall, Mo., Brownsville, Tex., to Winnipeg, Canada, 1,850 miles.

Speed for 100 kilometers (pay load 500 kilograms): Rolf Starke of Germany, 161.51 miles an hour.

Speed for 500 kilometers (pay load 500 kilograms): Rolf Starke of Germany, 146.6 miles an hour.

Speed for 100 kilometers (pay load 1,000 kilograms): Rolf Starke of Germany, 142.2 miles an hour.

Speed for 500 kilometers (pay load 1,000 kilograms): Rolf Starke of Germany, 151.51 miles an hour.

Altitude with pay load of 2,000 kilograms: de Vaisseau of France, 35,847 feet.

Greatest pay load carried to an altitude of 2,000 meters: Steindorf of Germany, 14,220 pounds.

The 100 and 500 kilometer speed marks with pay load of 500 kilograms formerly were held by United States flyers.

One new mark has been recorded in the recently established category for women. It is the solo endurance mark of Mlle. Maryse Bastie of France, who stayed aloft 26 hours 47 minutes 20 seconds. That is 20 1/2 minutes longer than the unofficial American record of Miss Elinor Smith of New York.

Besides the world record, three American records were set up as well as several unofficial American marks.

Zimmerly supplemented his world distance mark for light planes with an official American light plane altitude mark of 20,820 feet for single seaters of between 440 and 771 pounds in weight.

Kenneth Gale, Los Angeles, made an altitude mark of 16,912 feet for two-seater light planes, and Lieutenant Sweeney set a new American land plane altitude record of 39,140 feet.

Among the most notable of the unofficial marks are those of Capt. Frank Hawks—17 hours 49 minutes for a west to east transcontinental non-stop flight, and 19 hours, 10 minutes 32 seconds for the east-west loop.

Thus and other unofficial records, including those of women, are awaiting acceptance by the National Aeronautic Association.

BRIDGE COATS ARE POPULAR IN LONDON

Same Garments Are Called "Cocktail Jackets" in United States

New York—They call them "Bridge Coats" in London, and they differ from American "cocktail jackets" in a lot more than in name. In fact, usually black, they are tall, closed, hip length and endowed with two patch pockets. Sometimes the silk lining is gay in color, and a feature of the coat is its trimming of many buttons in gold or bright enamel, or crystal. A practical garment anywhere, especially for the over curved woman in a light frock, the bridge coat is particularly practical for the London lady who believes more in velvet than in radiators.

It now appears that Paris will allow you to have your tweed coat at about any length you please. Some of the grand couturiers insist that the skirt shall reach to the hem of the skirt; others inclined toward a sport coat comparatively short; and now along comes another creator who makes the dress consistently longer than the coat, and is getting away with it. As a matter of fact, a long tweed coat over a long tweed frock is apt to look rather lumpy except on a long slim figure.

CAPE CAPERS
Designers are cutting clever capers with the capes that come in under the Spanish influence. Almost every type of figure looks well in some type of cape, and there are nowadays about as many types of capes as of figures, ranging from the filmy chiffon dowered that floats half off one shoulder of the dance dress of the medieval cape that is hardly more than a panel and to the out and out cape that turns a mere coat into a romantic gesture.

Bunches of grapes are being worn as earrings and necklace ornaments roundabout London night clubs. Of crystal, amber, or amethyst, they sway from slender gold chains at the ears or from chains attached to other chains encircling the throat. Tiny diamond chips made up another necklace sometimes seen. It is usually in a setting so delicate as to be almost invisible. Except on close inspection, what the beholder sees is merely a flexible line of brilliant light.

NICE ROBIN
Philadelphia—Kenneth Jackson, 16-year-old Boy Scout, can toss a lasso with a skill that would make a movie cowboy green with envy. Recently on a trip the boy sped a huge bald eagle within range. He shot out his loop, dropped it over the bird and made it fast. He had to wait for some time for the bird to tire before he could capture it.

WISCONSIN Mother's Experience shows what can be done with children

HARSH corrective measures are seldom necessary with a child! Most modern parents recognize this. That's the reason so many agree on this gentle means of putting a child in order when bad breath, coated tongue, headache, biliousness or upsets tell of a clogged digestive tract.

When used at the first sign of bad breath or feverishness, a spoonful of California Fig Syrup often does the work! Sometimes several doses are necessary. Always you can depend on its use to clear the system harmlessly and in a hurry; to give the child a new start by regulating and strengthening the stomach and bowels.

Mothers by thousands praise the gentle effectiveness of this rich, fruity product which all children love. Mrs. J. Erasmus, 472 Fourteenth St., Milwaukee, says: "Nothing I know can take the place of California Fig Syrup in my home. It has been a blessing to my little girl during colds and upset spells. It always has her right in a jiffy."

Words like these and sales of four million bottles a year show how mothers depend on California Fig Syrup. One caution. The name "California" on the carton marks the genuine, famous for 50 years.

BATTLE AGAINST BOOTLEGGERS IN SUNNY SOUTH NOW

And It Looks Like Long, Hard Winter for Florida Rum Fleet

St. Petersburg, Fla.—(AP)—It looks like a long, hard winter for the rum fleet which operates in Florida waters.

The recent raid along the New Jersey coast, which rum trade said to have netted $2,000,000 in six months was smashed, marked what probably was the last major operation in the north of government forces this year. Liquor running isn't so successful in cold weather.

The battle against bootleggers now shifts to the sunny south.

Immediately following the New Jersey campaign, it was indicated in Washington that, by December 1, most of the available federal forces would be concentrated in this general vicinity.

And now, to add to the woes of runners working from the Bahamas and other wet points in Atlantic and Gulf waters, it has been announced that Uncle Sam's coast guard destroyers which war on liquor and alien smugglers along the Atlantic seaboard will be at home off St. Petersburg from January until well along in April for winter gunnery practice.

Twenty-four boats will have had a ring at floating targets in the Gulf of Mexico, and 2,000 men will have sharpened their shooting eyes at bird targets by the time the show is over.

For the small arms practice the finest coast guard target range in the United States is being completed at Egmont Key, a few miles from St. Petersburg.

The floating targets for guns of the destroyers will be towed to Gulf water out of the channels of commercial vessels by the Saugee, which has a crew of 80 men.

The destroyers will come from bases as far north as Boston in divisions of six. Each division will spend 15 or 20 days here.

Divisions 3 will be the first to take a hand at summing the targets in this group, arriving January 5, will be the destroyers Conyngham, Wainwright, Paulding, Burrows, Joutet and Beale.

Destroyers of Division 1 from London, Conn., will be second, arriving February 6. The boats are the Sharr, Tucker, Davis, Downes, Ersson and Cummings.

Division 2 destroyers, arriving March 15, are the MacDonald, Porter, Patterson, Roe, Terry and Ames.

The practice will be wound up by destroyers of Division 4 from New London, arriving April 17. In this group are the Cassin, Henley, Trippe, McCall, Monaghan and Fanning.

In addition to the destroyer fleet, smaller coast guard craft from the Gulf and lower Atlantic coast are expected off St. Petersburg for gunnery practice.

St. Petersburg and coast guardsmen of Base 21 here, the largest base in southern waters, have planned a series of social affairs for the gunners. Com. C. G. Roemer is in charge of the St. Petersburg base.

There are many beaches, often miles of very small area, whose sand has the peculiar property of giving off a metallic tone when stepped upon.

USE OF MARQUETTE REVIVED IN COSTUMING

Paris—(AP)—An old-fashioned material back in fashion after a long absence is the square meshed chiffon called marquette 20 years ago.

Some dressmakers here use it instead of chiffon for winter dance dresses with long skirts. Marquette is more durable than chiffon, looks bedraggled after an evening's which wrinkles with moisture and dancing.

CHAPTER 8
A BARRIER OF DOLLARS

Barbara and Ray both fell silent. She was biting her lip to keep back the tears. He was being so difficult. How she wished he would see things in the sensible way she did! Everything then would be wonderful.

She had not expected him to keep on being stubborn about accepting her money once he had given in sufficiently to marry her!

But, by the look on his face, she knew that it would be useless to argue with him in the present and "At least, won't you let me give you a honeymoon abroad as a wedding gift?"

He moved uneasily in his chair. It hurt him terribly to have to refuse her, and on this day of all days, too.

She looked so sweet and appealing as she sat there, her hazel eyes fixed anxiously upon his face. There was no other girl in the whole world who could compare with her, he was convinced of that.

All the same he said: "I can't do it, Barbara. I'm awfully sorry, dear, but we've got to get this straight from now on."

She regarded him with a hurt frown.

"I don't see why it should matter which one of us has the money so long as it's there."

"I don't agree with you, Barbara. I don't think a lot of money is altogether a blessing when you're young like we are. I'm normal enough to want to work for you and it hurts me to think I'll never be able to give you anything that you couldn't have bought as easily for yourself." He broke off abruptly.

"However, that's beside the point. For the present I'm afraid I'll have to accustom myself to my blowing that old saxophone, my dear."

The girl's teeth were set over her love. He and with Barbara that was a dangerous sign. Her eyes flashed angrily as she snatched her hand out of his.

"It's that rotten old price of yours. You let it keep us apart for three years and now it's going to ruin our honeymoon. How do you think I'll feel when the passengers know that my husband is playing in the orchestra?"

"We could keep our marriage a secret," he suggested.

"No, I don't believe in that. I'd planned on our leaving the ship at Southampton and going on up to London for a couple of weeks, but of course, if you're bent on finishing this tour in order to make me feel small and foolish—"

Her voice trailed away and hurt, angry tears brimmed to her eyes. Ray could not hold out in the face of her obvious misery. Desperately he wanted to make her happy.

"Barbara, Barbara, please don't talk like that. I'll do whatever you want me to do, dear. I'll let you have the money. I'll give you an O. T. for it."

She agreed, although she smiled to herself. She took the note from him later, but more in the light of an amusing farce they were staging than anything serious.

"Let's go in and dance for a while," she murmured, as she hooked her fingers contentedly through his.

"And please don't row any more this evening, Ray—I want this to be such a wonderful night—"

"It will be," he assured her, squeezing her fingers. "How could it fail to be? You and I—"

"And Paris," she broke in, smiling up into his eyes. "Where could you find a more perfect trio?"

Late that night, they returned to the hotel. They were tired, both of them, tired and keyed up at the same time.

It seemed to come over them suddenly, as they stood there beside the white twin beds, that they were actually married.

They smiled at each other, faintly and tremulously, each avoiding the other's eyes. They might have been strangers, in that moment, meeting for the first time under embarrassing circumstances.

Indeed, Barbara was asking herself, if this tall, dark, lean man was actually her husband. She felt that she scarcely knew him. Of course, she had known him well three years ago, but she had seen many indications that he had changed.

Now, suddenly, she felt a little afraid of the thing she had done; shy of him, too. To hide her embarrassment, she commenced humming one of the jazz tunes to which they had been dancing while she tapped a pointed silver-shod toe on the floor.

Ray, too, seemed awed by the strange unreality of that moment. That Barbara Landon, whom for three years he had loved, but loved as one lover the unattainable, should be standing there as his wife seemed incredible.

He wanted to take her in his arms, tell her of his love, but in that moment, he was more embarrassed than she. With a nervous movement he turned away and crossing to the dressing table, commenced doing something fussy and unnecessary to his tie.

An arm chair had been placed invitingly beside the glass doors that led out onto a minute balcony. Presently, as she came over to him he put his arms about her and pulled her down onto his lap. He kissed her softly, burying his face against her shoulder.

A bare white arm stole around his neck, holding him very tight.

"Yes, Ray."

He sat there, motionless for some time, staring out into the night. Presently, a slight frown wrinkled his brow and twice he opened his mouth and shut it again. Finally he said:

"Barbara girl, we've got to make a success of this—this marriage of ours, haven't we?"

She looked into his face wonderingly.

"But, of course, it's going to be a success."

He schooled after her. "Of course," then a moment later, as though he had tried but could not keep back what was in his mind, "but don't think it will be easy. We're both big-headed. You scored in our first bout today, but you're not going to do so every time."

She sighed. Here he was being difficult again. But she had no intention of arguing with him then.

"How absurd you are. You should know perfectly well that I don't want to 'score' as you put it. From now on everything will be a 50-50 proposition."

He opened his mouth to say something further, but quickly she placed a soft-palmed hand over it.

"Don't let's talk any more now, Ray. We only hurt each other when we talk. Just love me... tonight, Ray... You do love me... don't you?"

He said nothing.

"I do love you, Barbara," and drew her down more tightly into his arms.

TURN ABOUT
ALPHONSE: I don't take much to turn a girl's head, does it?

Boys and Girls
Come To TOYTOWN

TOYTOWN opens tomorrow! A fairy world of all the things that children want for Christmas. Toys such as you have never seen before. All the old favorites and lots of new playthings that you will want the moment you see them.

Trains that simply fly around their tracks — autos of the speediest models — dolls that look like real little girls — animals that might just have stepped out of a zoo — blocks and drums and jumping jacks, boats, paint boxes and hundreds of other wonderful things.

Come in and look at them, see the trains work, watch the autos run, hear the animals squak, learn to build bridges and derricks with the toy construction sets.

Grown ups find Toytown as fascinating as the boys and girls for whom it was planned. So come and bring the children. You'll enjoy an hour in Toytown as much as the youngsters do. If you haven't any children of your own, borrow somebody else's and visit Toytown at Pettibone's tomorrow.
